Holiday Road Fatalities May Hit New High

Traffic	409
Boating	24
Drowning	81
Miscellaneous	81
Total	595

By The Associated Press

Traffic accidents during the nation's Labor Day weekend killed an average of one person nearly every 10 minutes.

The toll, with final figures still to come, passed the 400 mark at the end of the 78-hour holiday period at midnight local time Monday. It was short of the National Safety Council's pre-holiday estimate of 460 and the record Labor Day toll of 461 set in 1951.

But the council said late reports may boost the final count to its estimate and possibly set a record for the holiday.

The Associated Press count of accidental deaths since 6 p.m. last Friday until Monday midnight showed 409 in traffic, 24 in boating, 81 drownings and 81 from miscellaneous causes. The overall total was 595.

In last year's Labor Day holiday period, also covering 78 hours, there were 438 traffic deaths, 29 persons were killed in boating accidents. The over-all toll of 613 compared with the record of 658 set in the 1951 Labor Day weekend.

'Showdown' Slated Today For Congo

Lumumba Calls For Parliament Session On Confidence Vote

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Premier Patrice Lumumba called for an emergency session of Parliament today to seek a vote of confidence in a showdown fight for power with President Joseph Kasavubu.

Lumumba acted after a rush of events in which Kasavubu went on the air in a dramatic move Monday night and announced the fiery premier's ouster. The latter countered by taking over the network and announcing he had fired Kasavubu as chief of state.

Claiming they have the support of the Congolese army, Lumuoba's supporters issued the call to both houses after an all-night Cabinet session.

Lumumba was plainly determined to keep his job despite Kasavubu's charge that under the premier's leadership the Congo was plunging into fratricidal strife and sliding toward the Soviet bloc.

As dawn broke over the tense capital, it appeared that Lumumba was still in authority.

Kasavubu's house was surrounded by U.N. Ghana troops manning light machine guns.

Jason Senwe, secretary of state, who took part in the all-night Cabinet session said, "We are going before the parliament. We are sure we will get a majority. The army is also behind Lumumba."

The sudden turn of events caught the U.N. in the middle with observers wondering which side it will deal with. Under basic Congo law — still not ratified — the president can dismiss the premier. But this legality could prove meaningless.

All U.N. forces in the capital were put on alert and a special U.N. guard was posted around Kasavubu's residence. U.N. units of British-trained Ghanian and Sudanese machinegunners and Moroccan riflemen kept watch over the tense capital.

(Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold studied reports of the twin grabs for power at his U.N. headquarters in New York. But he held off comment.

(There was no indication how soon another Congo emergency session of the Security Council might be called. "The situation in Leopoldville is just too fluid for us to say anything at this time," a spokesman for the secretary general said).

Kasavubu made his bold move in mid-evening. He broadcast an announcement that the erratic premier had been fired and said he was trying to stop the Congo's lunge toward the Communist Ending a three-month "holiday," some 5,500 pupils will trek back to classes in city public schools Wednesday morning.

A general meeting for all public school teachers was held this morning at Westgate School where final details were outlined. A principals' meeting followed.

Individual meetings in the various buildings were held this afternoon. Full day classes will start tomorrow.

An estimated 530 students returned to St. Aloysius Parochial School this morning for a brief session.

Meanwhile, schools in Hancock County opened this morning for the new term and 7,758 pupils were enrolled in Chester, Newell, Pughtown, New Cumberland and Weirton.

Parents interested in enrolling their youngsters in the Newell center are to bring them to the Legion home Wednesday. Classes are held from 9 to 11:30 a. m.

The enrollment includes 4,713 in elementary grades and 3,045 in high school, Supt. Robert H. Hall reported today.

A decrease of 25 per cent was shown in the number of first grade pupils because of a new state rule which requires all first grade students to be 6 years old before Nov. 1 instead of Feb. 1. Total first grade enrollment today was 700, compared with 844 on the first day of classes last term.

Elementary schools reported the following opening-day enrollment figures:

Car Damages House, Store; Driver Jailed

Wellsville Motorist Accused Of Hitting Shadyside Buildings

A Wellsville man was arrested on a drunken driving charge near midnight Monday after his auto damaged a home and an adjoining store on Shadyside Ave.

Donald G. Knoblock, 28, of 611 18th St., Wellsville, was fined $50 and costs, sentenced to 3 days in jail and his operator's permit was suspended for 30 days when arraigned on the charge today before Acting Municipal Judge Paul Tobin.

Police said Knoblock's 1959 two-door sedan crashed into the porch at the home of Theodore Chacas of Shadyside Ave. about 11:39 p.m. and the driver then backed the auto into the front of an adjoining store, also owned by Chacas.

Knoblock told police a tire went flat as he drove north on Shadyside about 20 miles an hour, causing the auto's to strike the house. The right front and rear of the auto were damaged, police said.

Another autoist was cited as the aftermath of a minor collision on Market St. at Diamond Alley Monday at 6 p. m.

Ferguson H. Kind Jr., 18, of 755 Minerva St. was accused of failure to stop in the assured clear distance after his 1956 two-door sedan hit the rear of a 1959 sedan operated by Leonard S. Reda, 37, of Cleveland, police said. Reda's car was halted when it was hit from the rear by Kind's, officers reported.

Kind was given a fine of $10 and costs, but both were suspended.

A similar mishap damaged another auto Monday at 4:52 p. m. on E. 3rd St. at Croook Alley.

A halted 1957 station wagon operated by Charles E. Mercer, 38, of 936 Fairview St. was hit from the rear by a 1954 two-door operated by Jerry Doyle, 16, of Steubenville, police said.

Doyle told police he was talking with a passenger and did not note the halted station wagon.

A collision at Tip Top Alley and Woodlawn Ave. at 6 p. m. Monday damaged a parked 1955 two-door sedan owned by William D. McMasters Jr., 1310½ St. Clair Ave., and a 1948 two-door operated by Okey Bailey, 38, of Dixonville, police said.

Bailey's car struck the parked auto as he was turning off Woodlawn into the alley, police said.

Two other motorists paid fines and forfeits today on charges filed as the aftermath of mishaps Saturday.

Thomas Renner of Thompson Pl. was fined $10 and costs on a reckless driving charge. He was cited after a two-car mishap Saturday at 4:30 p. m. on Dresden Ave.

Esther F. Davis, 41, of 119 Washington St. forfeited a $56 bond on a charge of driving without an oper-

Funeral To Be Wednesday

Former Gov. Earl Long Of Louisiana Dies At 65

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Earl Kemp Long returns today to the state Capitol he alternately dominated or tried to dominate for almost 30 years.

His seemingly boundless energy stilled forever by a third heart attack Monday, the 65-year-old patriarch of the state's first political family was to be borne from Alexandria, where he died, to the Capitol he ruled during three terms as governor.

There he was to lie in state 24 hours, until noon Wednesday. Funeral services were set for 2 p.m. Wednesday at the First Baptist Church.

Burial plans were tentatively announced for his Winnfield home but members of the Long family clung to the hope they would be able to satisfy one of his last wishes. That was to be buried on the Capitol grounds alongside his

Crime Group Gets Petition By Chester

480 Signatures Back Mayor Collins' Bid 'To Clean Up City'

WHEELING (AP) — State Police Supt. Hazen Fair denied to the West Virginia Crime Commission today that he had reprimanded state troopers for making gambling and liquor raids. He also said he had not issued orders that his office be notified before raids were made.

Fair was the first witness to testify as the commission opened hearings in the Northern Panhandle to look into reports of widespread gambling and liquor violations.

Fair produced a letter dated Jan. 16, 1957 — two days after Gov. Underwood took office and when R. W. Boyles still was police superintendent — advising all company commanders it no longer was necessary for them to get approval from the superintendent or governor before conducting a raid.

Fair was asked if he interpreted this was an alteration of policy which had been followed by former Gov. William C. Marland. Fair said he could not say whether it had been policy — the letter simply was found in the departmental files.

Before the session got underway, 16 persons from Chester presented the commission with a petition with 480 signatures. The petition supported "100 per cent the efforts of Mayor Ray Collins to clean up the city."

It said certain reports that the residents of Chester did not want the law enforced was false.

Mayor Collins was one of eight witnesses called to testify today.

More than 100 witnesses have been summoned to appear during the hearing, expected to last through the week.

The 10 members of the commission did not indicate beforehand specifically what they were going to investigate. Their announcement said only that the hearings would be "relative to activities in the Northern Panhandle."

The commission's general counsel, F. Dean Nichols, has been more communicative. He came to the Northern Panhandle earlier in the summer and talked freely about the "open violations" of liquor and gambling laws he found

Wellsville Motorist Accused Of Hitting Shadyside Buildings

A Wellsville man was arrested on a drunken driving charge near midnight Monday after his auto damaged a home and an adjoining store on Shadyside Ave.

Donald G. Knoblock, 28, of 611 18th St., Wellsville, was fined $50 and costs, sentenced to 3 days in jail and his operator's permit was suspended for 30 days when arraigned on the charge today before Acting Municipal Judge Paul Tobin.

Police said Knoblock's 1959 two-door sedan crashed into the porch at the home of Theodore Chacas of Shadyside Ave. about 11:39 p.m. and the driver then backed the auto into the front of an adjoining store, also owned by Chacas.

Knoblock told police a tire went flat as he drove north on Shadyside about 20 miles an hour, causing the auto's to strike the house. The right front and rear of the auto were damaged, police said.

Another autoist was cited as the aftermath of a minor collision on Market St. at Diamond Alley Monday at 6 p.m.

Ferguson H. Kind Jr., 18, of 755 Minerva St. was accused of failure to stop in the assured clear distance after his 1956 two-door sedan hit the rear of a 1959 sedan operated by Leonard S. Reda, 37, of Cleveland, police said. Reda's car was halted when it was hit from the rear by Kind's, officers reported.

Kind was given a fine of $10 and costs, but both were suspended.

A similar mishap damaged another auto Monday at 4:52 p. m. on E. 3rd St. at Croook Alley.

A halted 1957 station wagon operated by Charles E. Mercer, 38, of 936 Fairview St. was hit from the rear by a 1954 two-door operated by Jerry Doyle, 16, of Steubenville, police said.

Doyle told police he was talking with a passenger and did not note the halted station wagon.

A collision at Tip Top Alley and Woodlawn Ave. at 6 p. m. Monday damaged a parked 1955 two-door sedan owned by William D. McMasters Jr., 1310½ St. Clair Ave., and a 1948 two-door operated by Okey Bailey, 38, of Dixonville, police said.

Bailey's car struck the parked auto as he was turning off Woodlawn into the alley, police said.

Two other motorists paid fines and forfeits today on charges filed as the aftermath of mishaps Saturday.

Thomas Renner of Thompson Pl. was fined $10 and costs on a reckless driving charge. He was cited after a two-car mishap Saturday at 4:30 p. m. on Dresden Ave.

Esther F. Davis, 41, of 119 Washington St. forfeited a $56 bond on a charge of driving without an oper-

Crime Group Gets Petition By Chester

480 Signatures Back Mayor Collins' Bid 'To Clean Up City'

WHEELING (AP) — State Police Supt. Hazen Fair denied to the West Virginia Crime Commission today that he had reprimanded state troopers for making gambling and liquor raids. He also said he had not issued orders that his office be notified before raids were made.

Fair was the first witness to testify as the commission opened hearings in the Northern Panhandle to look into reports of widespread gambling and liquor violations.

Fair produced a letter dated Jan. 16, 1957 — two days after Gov. Underwood took office and when R. W. Boyles still was police superintendent — advising all company commanders it no longer was necessary for them to get approval from the superintendent or governor before conducting a raid.

Fair was asked if he interpreted this was an alteration of policy which had been followed by former Gov. William C. Marland. Fair said he could not say whether it had been policy — the letter simply was found in the departmental files.

Before the session got underway, 16 persons from Chester presented the commission with a petition with 480 signatures. The petition supported "100 per cent the efforts of Mayor Ray Collins to clean up the city."

It said certain reports that the residents of Chester did not want the law enforced was false.

Mayor Collins was one of eight witnesses called to testify today.

More than 100 witnesses have been summoned to appear during the hearing, expected to last through the week.

The 10 members of the commission did not indicate beforehand specifically what they were going to investigate. Their announcement said only that the hearings would be "relative to activities in the Northern Panhandle."

The commission's general counsel, F. Dean Nichols, has been more communicative. He came to the Northern Panhandle earlier in the summer and talked freely about the "open violations" of liquor and gambling laws he found

Funeral To Be Wednesday

Former Gov. Earl Long Of Louisiana Dies At 65

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Earl Kemp Long returns today to the state Capitol he alternately dominated or tried to dominate for almost 30 years.

His seemingly boundless energy stilled forever by a third heart attack Monday, the 65-year-old patriarch of the state's first political family was to be borne from Alexandria, where he died, to the Capitol he ruled during three terms as governor.

There he was to lie in state 24 hours, until noon Wednesday. Funeral services were set for 2 p.m. Wednesday at the First Baptist Church.

Burial plans were tentatively announced for his Winnfield home but members of the Long family clung to the hope they would be able to satisfy one of his last wishes. That was to be buried on the Capitol grounds alongside his

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: "Bitter 16" described how it felt to stand around at parties, laughing and pretending to have a good time. Her heart was really breaking because no fellow would ask her to dance.

Well, I'm a fellow 17, and there's a side to the story that hasn't been told yet.

You always criticize guys for running after dolls with filled-out shapes. Do you know how it is with us not-so-handsome fellows? Well, let me tell you.

I'm not very tall and guess you'd call me puny. I don't expect Sandra Dee to flip over me but if these girls who feel so out of it would give us shy guys a little encouragement, they wouldn't be so lonesome—and neither would we.

I've been turned down so many times I feel like an army blanket. Some girls would rather stand around feeling sorry for themselves than dance with an ordinary guy.—LAUGH CLOWN LAUGH.

Food And Thought

Dear Ann: The letter signed "Too Timid Maybe" should have been signed "Too Nervy for Sure."

Anyone who drops in uninvited and isn't offered refreshments within the first half hour should take the hint and go home. It takes plenty of brass to stick around for three hours—with young children yet!

It figures, however, that the insensitive bore who would drop in without first calling to see if it's convenient would also gripe because nobody offered her or her kids something to eat.

"Too Timid Maybe" whined in a self-pitying tone, "This happens to me all the time." I'm not surprised.

People who go places where they are not invited "all the time" rate just this sort of treatment. IMPOSED ON, TOO.

Dear Ann: "Too Timid Maybe" has given me a perfect opportunity to speak out on a subject which has troubled me for a long time. Americans and food.

I am not yet a citizen here, so perhaps I should not criticize, but almost from the first day in your country I noticed Americans have a compulsion to eat and drink constantly when more than two people get together.

Does the American feel he must fill his mouth with food in order to keep his foot out of it?

I sometimes have the impression you people offer food and drink as a substitute for ideas. When the conversation becomes dull, you are always ready to pass the potato chips and peanuts.

When guests come to my home I never serve them a bite of food unless they have been invited for dinner. In my opinion this is the mature approach to entertaining. Do you agree?—S. K.

Dear S.K.: No, I do not agree. "Breaking bread" together is a symbol of friendship and it goes back as far as Biblical times. Sharing food and drink is an expression of good fellowship.

You refer to "feeding the guests" with disdain (like feeding the monkeys) and suggest that this is an American custom. I've been to your country (in the interest of international relations) and the "casual" snack at your informal cocktail parties could pass for dinner over here.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Reading Texts Lack Phonics Emphasis

During the early thirties phonics almost wholly disappeared from schools. Methods of teaching reading, in the early grades and the basic reading textbooks, had children learn to recognize whole words by seeing and saying them over and over in meaningful sentences. It was chiefly memorizing and was called the word method, popularly known as the look-and-say method. A primer used about 12 to 40 words, repeating them over and over in different sentences or groups of sentences. Needless to say, these primers were deadly dull. In varied form, the look-and-say method still prevails and the basic texts for teaching reading in America are predominantly of this sort.

Garry C. Meyers

ACCORDING TO this method, children do not learn the letters of the alphabet until late in the first grade, even in the second. Parents are urged to avoid teaching the alphabet to their children while in the primary grades, and more especially to keep them ignorant of these letters before entering school.

For years many parents have been writing me complaining that their children were not learning phonics at school.

A few years ago, Dr. Rudolph Flesch, in his book "Why Johnny Can't Read", said that most children had difficulty reading because they were not being taught the sounds of letters, even the letters themselves.

A furor arose among many of the reading experts, especially those who were authors of textbooks based chiefly on the look-and-say method of teaching reading. They did seem to make a case in pointing out some statements by Dr. Flesch contrary to known facts.

YET THESE CRITICS hardly convinced the average parents that the major plea by Dr. Flesch, for early and continuous emphasis on phonics, did not make sense.

Some of the critics who were authors of reading textbooks maintained that their books and methods did take account of phonics, and some others, in revising their books, added a bit of phonics teaching.

Nevertheless, if you will examine the primer and first reader your young child is using, the chances are great that you will find they don't teach the basic sounds in words, but have only a few words used over and over, on the assumption that the youngster will remember these words when he sees them again, even if he doesn't recognize many or all of the 26 letters of the alphabet or their commonest sounds.

More on this tomorrow.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I clean some soiled neckties?

A. One very easy way to dry-clean your ties is to fill a fruit jar to within two or three inches of its top with some cleaning solvent, then drop in your tie, and screw the cover on tight. Shake vigorously for several minutes to loosen the dirt. Finally, remove the tie and hang it in a well-ventilated place to dry. Caution: Be sure to remember, when working with cleaning fluids, that some of them are flammable and should be used in a well-ventilated area!

Q. How can I make easier the job of scouring the inside of an oven that is encrusted with baking drippings?

A. After first turning off the pilot lights, place a bowl of household ammonia in the oven and close the door. Fumes from the ammonia will loosen the charred drippings, making them easier to remove.

Q. How can I renovate and brighten my black suede shoes?

A. You can give them a new lease on life by sponging them with some black coffee.

Roa Sends Bitter Note

Cuba, Argentina May Cut Off Diplomatic Relations

By RICHARD VALERIANI

HAVANA (AP) — A bitter exchange between Fidel Castro's Cuba and Argentina sparked predictions today of a diplomatic break between the two Latin American countries.

Cuba's Foreign Minister Raul Roa brought the issue to a head Monday night. In a sharp note to Argentina ambassador Julio A. Amosedo, he flatly rejected Argentina's protests over his recent attack on the government of President Arturo Frondizi before the Organization of American States in San Jose, Costa Rica.

Rao also sent a note—milder in tone—brushing aside Brazil's protests against his attack on Foreign Minister Horacio Lafer.

The exchange was prompted when Roa launched a biting attack on Argentina and Brazil at San Jose after they joined 17 other OAS nations in a censure of Cuba for agreeing to accept Soviet military aid in event of a U.S. attack.

Roa countered the Argentine protest by declaring it was impossible that he had offended the dignity of the Argentine people since "the dignity of the Argentine people was defended and honored in San Jose by the delegation of Cuba and not by the delegation of Argentina."

Argentina's behavior at the OAS conference demonstrated, said Roa, "Its frank adhesion to interventionist and aggressive maneuvers planned and organized by the U.S. government against Cuba."

He said Argentina had joined in opposing a Cuban resolution which would respect the rights of the Cuban people to rule their own destiny. The Cuban resolution, which was defeated, charged the United States with economic aggression.

Cleveland Heights Girl, 19, Dies As Result Of Cat's Bite

CLEVELAND (AP)—Miss Ellen Jane McDougal, 19, of Cleveland Heights, died Monday as the result of a cat bite she suffered July 12 while vacationing with her family in Guatemala.

At the same time a widespread search for a Cincinnati man bitten by the same cat ended when he called police in that city and told them he had taken rabies shots and was in good health.

Miss McDougal died at Hanna Pavilion of University Hospital. Coroner Samuel R. Gerber granted the hospital permission to do a post-mortem for final determination of the cause of death.

"Our working diagnosis is that the girl died of rabies," said Dr. Richard Prouty, the attending physician.

The girl's mother is Dr. Rachel McDougal, a clinical instructor in psychiatry at Western Reserve University's medical school. Her father, Robert D. McDougal, is a third year medical student at the university.

The girl's family recalled that the cat also bit a Cincinnati man whom they described as a "young fellow, about 22." He turned out to be Gvordon Mess, 22, a former University of Cincinnati student who now lives in West Lafayette, Ind.

Mess was visiting his wife's parents in Cincinnati when he heard a radio plea for him to identify himself and called police to halt the search. He told police he was frightened when bitten by the cat and consulted a Guatemalan physician who advised him to take rabies shots.

Miss McDougal was to begin her junior year at the University of Michigan next week.

"She was sitting on the porch bannister of our hotel at Tzanjuhu at Lake Atitlan near Guatemala City," her father said. "The cat was a hotel pet left behind by an employe who had been fired.

"It bit Ellen on the hand, just a little nip that hardly broke the skin . . . it necessitated no treatment or bandage."

McDougal said his daughter's skin became "red and blotchy" Thursday and she had a slight fever, but she felt better later. When she complained of being very ill Friday morning the family physician was called and he ordered her to the hospital.

Steelworkers And Teamsters Cross Rail Union Picket Lines

CLEVELAND (AP) — Picket lines of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen at the National Tube Division of the United States Steel Corp. in nearby Lorain were being crossed by steelworkers and teamsters without incident Monday.

The pickets are employes of the Lake Terminal Railroad, one of five subsidiary railroads of U. S. Steel struck by the BRT.

A company official said Monday that new plans at National Tube call for continued operation despite the trainmen's strike. It had been expected earlier that the plant would be closed after a progressive, orderly shutdown in cooperation with United Steelworkers Local 1104.

Sunday night the striking trainmen crowded outside the Peal Street gates of the plant and prevented late-shift workers from entering. They were dispersed by General Chairman Clifton R. Hale of BRT Local 388 and only a few pickets remained at each gate.

At later shift changes the pickets made no attempt to stop steelworkers and teamsters from entering the plant.

The central furnaces and coke ovens at U. S. Steel's American Steel & Wire Division here remained idle today because of picket lines established by striking employes of the Newburgh & South Shore Railway. The shutdown idled some 250 to 300 steelworkers.

A BRT spokesman said there would be no picketing at the Cuyahoga Works of American Steel & Wire, where more than 2,000 are employed.

The BRT walked out on the Union Railroad of Pittsburgh last Friday and struck Saturday against the Lake Terminal Railroad, the McKeesport Conecting Railroad of McKeesport, Pa., and the Southern Railroad of Donora, Pa. Employes of the Newburgh & South Shore Railway walked out Sunday.

Negotiations were to be resumed in Pittsburgh today in an effort to settle the dispute.

The BRT is seeking contracts equal in worth to the settlement reached last January with the basic steel industry. That pact called for an estimated package increase of 38 cents an hour. Pay scales for the railroad workers were not announced.

LISBON — A 1958 Plymouth sedan belonging to Harold Jarvis, 29, of Salineville, was destroyed by fire 2.7 miles south of Lisbon on Route 164 Monday at 4:10 p. m., according to Fire Chief Thirl Flugan.

Jarvis and his wife and two children had just been at the Lehman's Garage, making a deal for a new car and were returning home. The fire started near the engine and they were a[illegible] before it broke through the [illegible] wall of the sedan, Flugan said.

Sen. Jackson Says Attacks On Working Force Continue

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said here Monday that in spite of the place labor has won for itself, attacks on the hard-won rights of working men and women continue.

Addressing an all-day celebration sponsored by various labor organizations in the Mahoning Valley, the Democratic national chairman said:

"The anti-labor forces haven't quit trying. They've merely changed course—from outright force to discriminatory legislation. They couldn't stop labor from organizing. They couldn't stop unions from growing, but they can harass the labor movement through legislation, through misinterpretation of the laws and through loading the National Labor Relations Board with men unfriendly to labor."

Jackson said labor has won a respected place in America as an instrument for humanizing industrial relations and as a powerful force for strengthening a free society.

He said it is about time "we have a president who will start telling our people what is right with labor."

There is a need, he added, for a president telling the people about labor's help to free and anti-communist labor movements abroad, about its strong support for a better America in a better world and about its contributions to the building of a just and enduring peace.

It Works Better This Way

One union leader out of the 150 who gave AFL-CIO executive council endorsement to the Kennedy-Johnson ticket held out.

Philip Randolph, president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, insisted there was no substantial difference between the Kennedy-Johnson ticket and the Nixon-Lodge ticket. He thought an endorsement was out of order and organized labor's best bet was to form its own party to pick its own presidential candidate.

As much as Mr. Randolph is respected by other union leaders, they want no part of a separate "Labor party." Even if it were to be something better than a minority party, running third to the Democratic and Republican parties in national elections, they wouldn't touch it.

Whatever might happen ultimately to the Randolph idea of dividing the country between unionists and all voters who would not identify themselves with unionists in politics, the idea is unattractive now.

The existing arrangement with the Democrats is vastly more convenient. It keeps the AFL-CIO and other labor organizations that put up money and organizational drive for Democratic candidates out of sight. Walter Reuther, for example, never appeared in any television picture of the Democratic convention in Los Angeles. He made no statements. Yet in the convention's decisions he was perhaps the most influential man on the scene.

By staying out of sight, such men can keep even Democrats from being aware of the fact the Democratic party is a blind for the massive effort of labor organizations in the United States to dominate national politics without raising a political issue.

It is a particularly happy deception for voting floaters—the self-styled "independents" whose votes theoretically are bestowed first on one party, then on the other, depending on the merit of its candidates and policies.

It is as happy for them as the deception that makes it possible for them to vote for the retention of Sen. James O. Eastland of Mississippi as chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, which is the effect of voting a Democratic ticket.

Hundreds of thousands of independent voters whom the Democratic campaigners will be angling for in 1960 could not be appealed to by the hard-bitten unionists who use the Democratic party to advance the political aims of the big unions.

Yet, the Democratic party's front men can appeal to the independents in a way that makes them forget who is standing behind the front men, telling them what to say, when to say it and how much time to take while saying it.

Philip Randolph's idea of getting the whole thing into the open is commendable for its frankness, but Mr. Randolph missed the point. The point is to keep from getting the whole thing into the open.

That would drive away all voters who are not for one reason or another avowedly voting in direct support of the union leaders who then would be as well known and ruthlessly criticized as any of the politicians they now keep in front of them.

Mr. K Will Return—So What?

The not unexpected news that the Soviet Union's globe-trotting chairman will show up in New York City for the United Nations' General Assembly has caused more excitement than the approach of the "red coats" in Paul Revere's time.

We Americans worry too much about the Khrushchevs, Molotovs, Malenkovs, Kaganoviches and Stalins and what they will do next?

These people and their stooges and hirelings are so preoccupied with their worries about the United States and its people that it seems foolish to be equally worried about them.

They spend all their time figuring out how to overtake the United States and are always fooling themselves into thinking the American people will stand still while their rivals are trying to catch up. Even some Americans have begun to think this way.

They are suggesting that America should be more like Russia in order to keep Russians from being more like Americans. We don't know what psychologists call this, but in the aphorisms that take the place of psychology among most of us it's spoken of as "fighting fire with fire," also as "joining the unprintable so-and-sos if you don't think you can beat 'em."

Most of us, fortunately, think we can beat the Russians, provided we haven't lost the knack of working. That's admittedly a question mark that hovers over the United States, but the question hasn't yet been answered negatively.

With so many Americans determined that it shall be answered positively the prospects of U.S. survival are good.

They would be better, though, if something could be done about this country's unhealthy preoccupation with every decision, move, grunt and gesture from the Kremlin.

There is a psychopathic fascination about Communism. In the witch-hunting era after World War I, it used to be said that Americans looked for bearded Communists under their beds every night.

But in the most hysterical days of the post-World War I witch-hunting, there wasn't the unhealthy preoccupation with Communism that there is now.

To be sure, the Soviet Union then was only an experiment and now it is a major power. But the United States now is a major power, too, and it has learned in a generation of experience that no nation ever made a voluntary decision to adopt the Communist credo of dictatorship and politician-worship.

We must keep our eye on the Reds.

We must know how far they are behind us so we can keep in front of them, like an Olympic runner.

But we should be able to do it without turning around and running backward so we can stare in bewildered fascination 24 hours every day.

So Khrushchev is coming to the United Nations . . . so what?

Everybody Learned A Lesson

It is obvious that the Kohler Co. of Wisconsin is not going to hire back workers who have been on strike for six years without fighting the National Labor Relations Board's ruling that it must do so.

It is further obvious that if the company did hire back as many as 2,000 workers who had been off its payroll for six years at the expense of getting rid of their replacements a grievous wrong would be done. Even the NLRB, with its phenomenal capacity for rationalizing the irrational, would have trouble rationalizing that.

By this time everybody has a fixed opinion about the Kohler strike. It has been the most talked about, most written about strike in this century. It has generated mountains of arguments, rebuttals and reports of hearings. It has been investigated by unions, management, Congress, scholars and an endless chain of newspaper and magazine writers.

It has been in and out of the courts of Wisconsin. It has been to the United States Supreme Court. It has been a career for some NLRB members. Lawyers have fed on it. United Auto Workers and its president, Walter Reuther, have spent no less than 11 million dollars on it. The Kohler Co., though it has survived, has lost an untold and untellable amount of business.

The latest development — an NLRB ruling that the company should rehire up to several thousand employes, eliminating only 77 who for one reason or another cannot be given a clean bill of health — is inconclusive. That is, perhaps, the lesson taught by the Kohler strike.

Everybody has learned that a labor-management dispute that cannot be resolved in a reasonable length of time never can be resolved. Bitterness is piled on bitterness until original issues are buried. Details and technicalities defy comprehension. Circumstances change so radically that settlement of the original dispute could not settle the disputes that grew out of the original dispute.

The disputants grow older. Their minds change. They are like feudists who cannot remember how the feud began. All they know is that in the absence of a way out they are honor-bound to keep on feuding.

On the face of it, the Kohler Co. has come out ahead. It has not knuckled under to the UAW. The company is still in business on its own terms. But so is the UAW in business. Both would be better off if there never had been a Kohler deadlock.

Barry Goldwater

By Bob Wood

PHOENIX

When Barry Goldwater decided to try shooting river rapids, he snubbed safe waters to take on roaring white water where veteran boatmen have drowned.

He challenged the mean Colorado six times and won.

Modern weapons are sissy stuff. At the target range near his desert home he uses old muzzle - loaders with black powder and homemade musket balls.

Such flair for the dramatic and refusal to choose the easy way also are characteristic of Goldwater's life as U. S. senator from Arizona and leader of the Conservative wing of the Republican party.

Long - time friends say Goldwater always has followed a no-compromise policy and insisted on attacking anyone who stepped on his toes.

ONE RECALLED: "Barry, as a kid, had a hard time whipping a girl with his fists, but he would fight anybody, anytime, for any reason."

As a senator, Goldwater has criticized labor leaders — "Walter Reuther (head of the United Auto Workers) is more dangerous to America than the Russian Sputnik."

He has attacked the Supreme Court — "Chief Justice Earl Warren hasn't practiced law in 25 years, has never been a judge and is a Socialist."

He has jumped the Democrats — "the Democratic candidates are the phoniest group of people ever paraded before the American public. They don't give a darn about you people, they just want your vote."

He has blasted the Easterners — "if I could saw off the Eastern Seaboard and let it float out, I sometimes think the country would be better off."

He has roared at the leaders of his own party, calling the pre-convention meeting between Vice President Nixon and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller on the GOP platform a "Munich." He said then Nixon's action could be "interpreted in no other way than a bid to appease the Republican left."

Despite the disapproval of parts of the final platform, he nonetheless accepted it as at least better than the Democrats'.

The Short-Of-Space Age

Knee May Cripple Nixon's Chances

By Victor Riesel

Dick Nixon, whose political wounds always have healed quickly, will suffer by the toughest break of his career if the brutal poison in his knee keeps him shut in for more than two weeks. It will cripple strategy for countering the most hard-hitting anti-Republican labor campaign in our history.

Victor Riesel

The vice president and his counselors always have reckoned they could get much of the vote of people who labor even if they could not get the "labor vote."

To the GOP inner sanctum strategists there is a difference. There are millions of working people who are not dedicated philosophical unionists.

Among those millions who labor are Americans of many national groups which still have strong emotional ties with their former homelands — and families — now behind the curtain of iron held tightly in place by Chairman Khrushchev.

Of these national groups, such as those from Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Latvia, Bulgaria, East Germany and even once-invaded Finland, millions are trade union members.

THERE ARE other first and second generation descendents of great immigration waves who are bitter against the Soviets for what has been done to decency, freedom and their families.

There is great anger in the Jewish community which, towards the end of September, will release a devastating report on Soviet anti-Semitism.

There is anger in the influential Italian communities against the coldly methodical and heavily financed Communist underground operations inside Italy.

Most of these communities are in industrial areas. Most of them were expected by the labor - political strategists to vote against Dwight Eisenhower in 1952 and 1956. Most of these communities did not. Instead they helped cast the extra votes which put the general in the White House.

This startled labor and Democratic analysts. They and the Republicans did some research. They learned that the emotional ties of these communities with the struggles of their families and "old" countries were stronger than the economic ties with and respect for their unions and labor leaders here.

When the political scientists inside the GOP high command began putting pins in their maps for speeches which they hoped would prick and deflate John Kennedy's great appeal on the domestic front and neutralize the indefatigable senator's cooperation with the labor movement, the Republicans scheduled Dick Nixon mainly across the industrial top of the United States.

THEY SET UP meetings from Maine to California for September and October. They hoped to start with Labor Day in New York and wind up in the same city on Election Eve.

They arranged for the vice president to criss-cross the basic industrial states — including Jack Kennedy's home base of Massachusetts — anywhere from six to eight times.

Already there are plans for the auto centers of Detroit and Flint, Mich., the steel areas of Youngstown, O., and Pittsburgh, and such great cities as Philadelphia and Los Angeles.

They then coupled Nixon with Henry Cabot Lodge on one ticket. This they planned to hail as the freedom fighters' drive.

Dick Nixon would be — on every platform — of course, the man who stood up against Chairman Khrushchev toe to toe.

Ambassador Lodge, of course, is the television image of the man who constantly rose, removed his glasses and attacked the international Communists on every issue from Hungary to their attempt to exploit Africa during its worst moments.

This phase of the presidential campaign then would become a struggle for the allegiance of millions.

The latter would have to choose between the Republican experience on the foreign front and John Kennedy fighting for New Deal legislation on the home front.

In many areas these votes are the balance of victory for a candidate. If Dick Nixon couldn't get to them personally, it would be a tough break for him indeed.

Experiment And Sanctuary

By Relman Morin

MYPHUOCTAY, South Viet Nam (AP) — Deep in the waterlogged delta of South Viet Nam, far from the nearest city, another "aggroville" rises.

This is a new - type farming community. The Vietnamese government calls it, more elaborately, "a populated prosperity zone."

Its wood and bamboo houses shelter 187 families, nearly 1,100 men, women and children. Together with some larger buildings — a primary school, a hospital, administrative offices — the houses cluster in a tight knot on the edge of the jungle. Except for its newness, the "aggroville" looks pretty much like any other village in the delta.

Actually, it is very different.

For this is a symbol of war on two fronts against the Communists in Southeast Asia — war at the rice roots level.

By night, the "aggroville" is a sanctuary.

IT IS DESIGNED to provide a degree of security for the peasants, and the village head-men, against marauding bands of the Viet-Cong, the Communists from the north. They are a little safer here than in the scattered communities where they formerly lived.

By day, it is an economic and social experiment.

The president of South Viet Nam, tough, forceful Ngo Dinh Diem, inaugurated the "aggrovilles." They are part of his program of land reform and islands of resistance in his fierce struggle against the Viet-Cong.

They symbolize many of the vast and dangerous problems confronting staunchly anti - Communist Viet Nam — the military problem of stamping out well-trained, well - supplied Communist forces, and political problem complicated by troubled relations with neighboring Cambodia and an apparent shift to "neutralism" in Laos, the economic problem brought by nine years of war, the social problem of uprooting peasants from their own villages and their own land and "persuading" them to move to the "aggrovilles."

To go back a bit. War ravaged Indochina from 1945 to 1954. It ended shortly after the Communists crushed the French stronghold at Dien Bien Phu.

In the Geneva agreements of 1954, the country was vivisected at the 17th Parallel into Communist North Viet Nam and anti-Communist South Viet Nam. Cambodia and Laos became independent states.

IN INTERVIEWS, President Diem emphasizes five major points:

1.—He says that while provinces of Viet Nam were controlled by the Communits during the nine-year period. They had the opportunity to organize the peasants and to set up their apparatus. Neither in Malaya nor in Korea — both scenes of savage war with the Reds — was this true to the same degree.

2.—After the division of the country, as they pulled out to the north, the Communists left hidden caches of arms and ammunition, and trained officers disguised as peasants to continue the guerrilla warfare.

3.—With keen foresight, they also scooped up thousands of young men and took them to North Viet Nam. There are thousands of split families in the country today — hostages used to force the peasants in the south to help the Viet-Cong.

4.—Physical damage was enormous in battered cities, shattered bridges, lacerated roads and ravaged plantations. An American observer says today, "We were amazed that the country was alive at all." He says that the recovery was often called "the miracle of Viet Nam."

5.—Some 800,000 of refugees poured southward, escaping the Comuunist regime in the north. They had to be re-settled, fed and given employment.

American dollars poured in, too, along with military instructors and technicians of many kinds. South Viet Nam has been, and still is, the scene of one of the biggest — and in many ways, most successful — American aid programs.

In five years, betwene July 1954 and June 30, 1959, American economic assistance totalled one billion 144 million dollars. During the past year, the figure was 182 million. More than three - quarters of the funds were used to finance imports into the country through regular commercial channels.

The Long Brothers

By James Marlow

They Had Secret To Political Magic

WASHINGTON

Earl was a country bumpkin compared with Huey but the two Long brothers who died 25 years apart, almost to the day, had the secret of political magic.

They were for something—just being against isn't good enough—and they gave those who voted for them a sense of direction, or of belonging, or of being wanted, or of somehow being identified with them.

Earl had been a three-time Louisiana governor. When he died Monday at 65 he had just won the Democratic runoff primary for a congressional seat after losing a fight for lieutenant governor and ducking in and out of mental hospitals.

When Sen. Huey Long died Sept. 10, 1935, after being shot, he had become bigger than Louisiana politics. He was a national figure, getting bigger and, from the long-range view, perhaps more dangerous.

This writer never believed that Sen. Joseph McCarthy, despite such support as he had, would ever go further than the Senate, or that he would remain there long after his crusade simmered down.

McCarthy wasn't for something. He was against something—Communism. Most other Americans were against it, too. But this in a sense was negative. It never gave voters the feeling they were going any place with McCarthy.

McCarthy had only one string to his bow, and it snapped. By the time he died in 1954 he was in eclipse. Even Hitler knew politics better than that. He was against Jews. But he was for a bigger Germany, a richer German life, he said.

Nobody knew the political magic better than the old Tammany Hall politicians. They were for something—a better life somehow for the tenement poor in New York.

By finding them jobs, helping them in distress, providing food, they gave the poor a sense of belonging, particularly the children of immigrants.

The edge was knocked off Tammany's appeal—but not the basic nature of its appeal—when the government under the New Deal stepped in with Social Security, public assistance, unemployment compensation.

It was Franklin D. Roosevelt, more than any president in this century, who had the opportunity, with a nation in the despair of depression, to give the masses a new sense of direction and of being wanted.

His New Deal was so broad it was easy for the millions who re-elected him time and again to identify his success with their own and him with them.

President Eisenhower did it another way when the country was torn by McCarthyism and the Korean War. He met the national desire for quiet and peace and restored both. No wonder he was re-elected overwhelmingly in 1956.

When Huey Long became governor in 1928, Louisiana was one of the poorest and most illiterate states in the nation. Children had to buy their own schoolbooks. The roads were gravel from border to border.

The mass of French-speaking Cajuns in the Acadian country in the south and the red-necked Anglo-Saxons in the north had a right to feel neglected and unwanted. The comforts of the rich were something they didn't have and couldn't know.

Long blasted the rich, identified himself with the more numerous poor, and promised them a new and better life, a new direction. He made good on a lot of his promises.

The new Capitol he built at Baton Rouge was a visible monument to the new life he talked about. The secret of his political philosophy and his appeal was summed up in the title of the book he wrote: "Every Man a King."

This writer knew both Huey and Earl. Huey was far the smoother. He had far the bigger vision of the two—at least for himself. And he was undoubtedly the more ruthless, as his death under gunfire showed.

But if you had been exposed to Earl you would have had no doubt he was in earnest in wanting to do things for the masses, even if tied up with that desire was his own desire for power.

What Earl represented, in essence, was a continuance of Huey's philosophy.

Martyr Or Tyrant?

By Hugh A. Mulligan

"What are they building the scaffold for?" asked the bulbnosed man in the rumpled suit.

"They're building it for you, Huey Long."

Governor of Louisiana for less than a year, Huey Pierce Long had come to a grim crossroads in his hectic political career.

He faced impeachment on 19 charges that included, among other things, attempted murder, bribery, misappropriation of funds, violent abuse of citizens and officials, intimidation of the press, cavorting with a semi-nude dancer and conduct generally unbecoming a governor.

Any one of the charges might have been enough to topple an ordinary officeholders, but Huey Long was no ordinary officeholder.

"I'm sui generis," he was fond of saying, one of a kind. And in truth there was none like him, not even in the family dynasty that he founded.

HUEY BEAT the rap, as he always did, with a cunning mixture of hoopla, invective, ruthless pressure on lawmakers and a spellbinder's appeal to the masses.

"Bloody Monday," the wildest night in the history of the Louisiana legislature — when the voting machine unaccountably broke down amid cries of fraud and the House adjourned in riotuous confusion — gave him the time he needed to regroup his forces.

Troopers raced across the state with placards denouncing the impeachment proceeding as a "Standard Oil plot." Frenzied crowds gathered to hear the Kingfish laugh off the charges with his deft gift for ridicule and to hear him recite "Invictus," his favorite poem.

In the heat of the day, younger brother Earl Long sank his teeth into the cheek of an unfriendly official.

In the dead of night, Huey summoned 15 senators from their beds and got them to sign the famous "round-robin" that halted the impeachment for lack of votes to convict him. Huey personally ordered the carpenters to take down the scaffold-like platform erected in the Senate chamber for his trial, saying it reminded him of the French Revolution.

After that, there was no stopping him. Another revolution was in the making.

"Share the wealth," he preached, outlining a scheme to confiscate all fortunes over five million dollars and limit incomes to a million a year after taxes.

But those who tend to lump Huey Long with the ordinary run of the pea patch demagogue may underestimate his accomplishment in Louisiana and misunderstand his talents and intentions.

AND HE WAS, above all, a brilliant orator.

Listen to his campaign speech under Evangeline oak in St. Martinville, the setting for Longfellow's famous poem:

"Evangeline is not the only one who waited here in disappointment. Where are the schools that you have waited for your children to have, that have never come? Where are the roads and the highways that you send your money to build, that are no nearer now than ever before? Where are the institutions to care for the sick and the disabled?

"Evangeline wept bitter tears in her disappointment, but it lasted through only one lifetime. Your tears in this country, around this oak, have lasted for generations. Give me the chance to dry the eyes of those who still weep here."

Huey got the chance and he delivered. He gave Louisiana 6,000 miles of paved roads, put bridges across every major river, doubled the number of charity hospitals, gave every child free school books, reduced the number of illiterates by 100,000, increased Louisiana State University's enrollment from 1,600 to more than 5,000 by slashing tuitions, built a new executive mansion and a magnificent 34-story state capitol.

But, in the process, Louisiana got more than it bargained for. The man who boasted he could buy" the legislature like a sack of potatoes, shuffle 'em like a deck of cards" set about consolidating his gains in a ruthless power grab.

Before he was done, Huey had the power to appoint and recall all mayors, police chiefs, school teachers. He could reprieve all convictions, including contempt, which gave him control of the judges.

The National Guard became his personal army, the state police his personal messenger boys. When the state bar association reprimended his attorney general for failing to prosecute a vote fraud case, Huey simply formed his own bar association and put the recalcitrant attorney general at the head of it.

He never controlled the press, but his answer to "them lying newspapers" was Louisiana Progress, his own publication delivered right to the doorstep by obliging state troopers.

Huey never forgot a friend or an enemy. The friends usually wound up in public office, the enemies in his little black "S.O.B. book."

With its numerous tributaries, the Congo River drains an African area totaling 1,450,000 square miles.

Such flair for the dramatic and refusal to choose the easy way also are characteristic of Goldwater's life as U. S. senator from Arizona and leader of the Conservative wing of the Republican party.

Long - time friends say Goldwater always has followed a no-compromise policy and insisted on attacking anyone who stepped on his toes.

ONE RECALLED: "Barry, as a kid, had a hard time whipping a girl with his fists, but he would fight anybody, anytime, for any reason."

As a senator, Goldwater has criticized labor leaders — "Walter Reuther (head of the United Auto Workers) is more dangerous to America than the Russian Sputnik."

He has attacked the Supreme Court — "Chief Justice Earl Warren hasn't practiced law in 25 years, has never been a judge and is a Socialist."

He has jumped the Democrats — "the Democratic candidates are the phoniest group of people ever paraded before the American public. They don't give a darn about you people, they just want your vote."

He has blasted the Easterners — "if I could saw off the Eastern Seaboard and let it float out, I sometimes think the country would be better off."

He has roared at the leaders of his own party, calling the pre-convention meeting between Vice President Nixon and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller on the GOP platform a "Munich." He said then Nixon's action could be "interpreted in no other way than a bid to appease the Republican left."

Despite the disapproval of parts of the final platform, he nonetheless accepted it as at least better than the Democrats'.

The Short-Of-Space Age

Knee May Cripple Nixon's Chances

By Victor Riesel

Dick Nixon, whose political wounds always have healed quickly, will suffer by the toughest break of his career if the brutal poison in his knee keeps him shut in for more than two weeks. It will cripple strategy for countering the most hard-hitting anti-Republican labor campaign in our history.

Victor Riesel

The vice president and his counselors always have reckoned they could get much of the vote of people who labor even if they could not get the "labor vote."

To the GOP inner sanctum strategists there is a difference. There are millions of working people who are not dedicated philosophical unionists.

Among those millions who labor are Americans of many national groups which still have strong emotional ties with their former homelands — and families — now behind the curtain of iron held tightly in place by Chairman Khrushchev.

Of these national groups, such as those from Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Latvia, Bulgaria, East Germany and even once-invaded Finland, millions are trade union members.

THERE ARE other first and second generation descendents of great immigration waves who are bitter against the Soviets for what has been done to decency, freedom and their families.

There is great anger in the Jewish community which, towards the end of September, will release a devastating report on Soviet anti-Semitism.

There is anger in the influential Italian communities against the coldly methodical and heavily financed Communist underground operations inside Italy.

Most of these communities are in industrial areas. Most of them were expected by the labor - political strategists to vote against Dwight Eisenhower in 1952 and 1956. Most of these communities did not. Instead they helped cast the extra votes which put the general in the White House.

This startled labor and Democratic analysts. They and the Republicans did some research. They learned that the emotional ties of these communities with the struggles of their families and "old" countries were stronger than the economic ties with and respect for their unions and labor leaders here.

When the political scientists inside the GOP high command began putting pins in their maps for speeches which they hoped would prick and deflate John Kennedy's great appeal on the domestic front and neutralize the indefatigable senator's cooperation with the labor movement, the Republicans scheduled Dick Nixon mainly across the industrial top of the United States.

THEY SET UP meetings from Maine to California for September and October. They hoped to start with Labor Day in New York and wind up in the same city on Election Eve.

They arranged for the vice president to criss-cross the basic industrial states — including Jack Kennedy's home base of Massachusetts — anywhere from six to eight times.

Already there are plans for the auto centers of Detroit and Flint, Mich., the steel areas of Youngstown, O., and Pittsburgh, and such great cities as Philadelphia and Los Angeles.

They then coupled Nixon with Henry Cabot Lodge on one ticket. This they planned to hail as the freedom fighters' drive.

Dick Nixon would be — on every platform — of course, the man who stood up against Chairman Khrushchev toe to toe.

Ambassador Lodge, of course, is the television image of the man who constantly rose, removed his glasses and attacked the international Communists on every issue from Hungary to their attempt to exploit Africa during its worst moments.

This phase of the presidential campaign then would become a struggle for the allegiance of millions.

The latter would have to choose between the Republican experience on the foreign front and John Kennedy fighting for New Deal legislation on the home front.

In many areas these votes are the balance of victory for a candidate. If Dick Nixon couldn't get to them personally, it would be a tough break for him indeed.

Experiment And Sanctuary

By Relman Morin

MYPHUOCTAY, South Viet Nam (AP) — Deep in the waterlogged delta of South Viet Nam, far from the nearest city, another "aggroville" rises.

This is a new - type farming community. The Vietnamese government calls it, more elaborately, "a populated prosperity zone."

Its wood and bamboo houses shelter 187 families, nearly 1,100 men, women and children. Together with some larger buildings — a primary school, a hospital, administrative offices — the houses cluster in a tight knot on the edge of the jungle. Except for its newness, the "aggroville" looks pretty much like any other village in the delta.

Actually, it is very different.

For this is a symbol of war on two fronts against the Communists in Southeast Asia — war at the rice roots level.

By night, the "aggroville" is a sanctuary.

IT IS DESIGNED to provide a degree of security for the peasants, and the village head-men, against marauding bands of the Viet-Cong, the Communists from the north. They are a little safer here than in the scattered communities where they formerly lived.

By day, it is an economic and social experiment.

The president of South Viet Nam, tough, forceful Ngo Dinh Diem, inaugurated the "aggrovilles." They are part of his program of land reform and islands of resistance in his fierce struggle against the Viet-Cong.

They symbolize many of the vast and dangerous problems confronting staunchly anti - Communist Viet Nam — the military problem of stamping out well-trained, well - supplied Communist forces, and political problem complicated by troubled relations with neighboring Cambodia and an apparent shift to "neutralism" in Laos, the economic problem brought by nine years of war, the social problem of uprooting peasants from their own villages and their own land and "persuading" them to move to the "aggrovilles."

To go back a bit. War ravaged Indochina from 1945 to 1954. It ended shortly after the Communists crushed the French stronghold at Dien Bien Phu.

In the Geneva agreements of 1954, the country was vivisected at the 17th Parallel into Communist North Viet Nam and anti-Communist South Viet Nam. Cambodia and Laos became independent states.

IN INTERVIEWS, President Diem emphasizes five major points:

1.—He says that while provinces of Viet Nam were controlled by the Communits during the nine-year period. They had the opportunity to organize the peasants and to set up their apparatus. Neither in Malaya nor in Korea — both scenes of savage war with the Reds — was this true to the same degree.

2.—After the division of the country, as they pulled out to the north, the Communists left hidden caches of arms and ammunition, and trained officers disguised as peasants to continue the guerrilla warfare.

3.—With keen foresight, they also scooped up thousands of young men and took them to North Viet Nam. There are thousands of split families in the country today — hostages used to force the peasants in the south to help the Viet-Cong.

4.—Physical damage was enormous in battered cities, shattered bridges, lacerated roads and ravaged plantations. An American observer says today, "We were amazed that the country was alive at all." He says that the recovery was often called "the miracle of Viet Nam."

5.—Some 800,000 of refugees poured southward, escaping the Comuunist regime in the north. They had to be re-settled, fed and given employment.

American dollars poured in, too, along with military instructors and technicians of many kinds. South Viet Nam has been, and still is, the scene of one of the biggest — and in many ways, most successful — American aid programs.

In five years, betwene July 1954 and June 30, 1959, American economic assistance totalled one billion 144 million dollars. During the past year, the figure was 182 million. More than three - quarters of the funds were used to finance imports into the country through regular commercial channels.

The Long Brothers

By James Marlow

They Had Secret To Political Magic

WASHINGTON

Earl was a country bumpkin compared with Huey but the two Long brothers who died 25 years apart, almost to the day, had the secret of political magic.

They were for something—just being against isn't good enough—and they gave those who voted for them a sense of direction, or of belonging, or of being wanted, or of somehow being identified with them.

Earl had been a three-time Louisiana governor. When he died Monday at 65 he had just won the Democratic runoff primary for a congressional seat after losing a fight for lieutenant governor and ducking in and out of mental hospitals.

When Sen. Huey Long died Sept. 10, 1935, after being shot, he had become bigger than Louisiana politics. He was a national figure, getting bigger and, from the long-range view, perhaps more dangerous.

This writer never believed that Sen. Joseph McCarthy, despite such support as he had, would ever go further than the Senate, or that he would remain there long after his crusade simmered down.

McCarthy wasn't for something. He was against something—Communism. Most other Americans were against it, too. But this in a sense was negative. It never gave voters the feeling they were going any place with McCarthy.

McCarthy had only one string to his bow, and it snapped. By the time he died in 1954 he was in eclipse. Even Hitler knew politics better than that. He was against Jews. But he was for a bigger Germany, a richer German life, he said.

Nobody knew the political magic better than the old Tammany Hall politicians. They were for something—a better life somehow for the tenement poor in New York.

By finding them jobs, helping them in distress, providing food, they gave the poor a sense of belonging, particularly the children of immigrants.

The edge was knocked off Tammany's appeal—but not the basic nature of its appeal—when the government under the New Deal stepped in with Social Security, public assistance, unemployment compensation.

It was Franklin D. Roosevelt, more than any president in this century, who had the opportunity, with a nation in the despair of depression, to give the masses a new sense of direction and of being wanted.

His New Deal was so broad it was easy for the millions who re-elected him time and again to identify his success with their own and him with them.

President Eisenhower did it another way when the country was torn by McCarthyism and the Korean War. He met the national desire for quiet and peace and restored both. No wonder he was re-elected overwhelmingly in 1956.

When Huey Long became governor in 1928, Louisiana was one of the poorest and most illiterate states in the nation. Children had to buy their own schoolbooks. The roads were gravel from border to border.

The mass of French-speaking Cajuns in the Acadian country in the south and the red-necked Anglo-Saxons in the north had a right to feel neglected and unwanted. The comforts of the rich were something they didn't have and couldn't know.

Long blasted the rich, identified himself with the more numerous poor, and promised them a new and better life, a new direction. He made good on a lot of his promises.

The new Capitol he built at Baton Rouge was a visible monument to the new life he talked about. The secret of his political philosophy and his appeal was summed up in the title of the book he wrote: "Every Man a King."

This writer knew both Huey and Earl. Huey was far the smoother. He had far the bigger vision of the two—at least for himself. And he was undoubtedly the more ruthless, as his death under gunfire showed.

But if you had been exposed to Earl you would have had no doubt he was in earnest in wanting to do things for the masses, even if tied up with that desire was his own desire for power.

What Earl represented, in essence, was a continuance of Huey's philosophy.

Martyr Or Tyrant?

By Hugh A. Mulligan

"What are they building the scaffold for?" asked the bulb-nosed man in the rumpled suit.

"They're building it for you, Huey Long."

Governor of Louisiana for less than a year, Huey Pierce Long had come to a grim crossroads in his hectic political career.

He faced impeachment on 19 charges that included, among other things, attempted murder, bribery, misappropriation of funds, violent abuse of citizens and officials, intimidation of the press, cavorting with a semi-nude dancer and conduct generally unbecoming a governor.

Any one of the charges might have been enough to topple an ordinary officeholders, but Huey Long was no ordinary officeholder.

"I'm sui generis," he was fond of saying, one of a kind. And in truth there was none like him, not even in the family dynasty that he founded.

HUEY BEAT the rap, as he always did, with a cunning mixture of hoopla, invective, ruthless pressure on lawmakers and a spellbinder's appeal to the masses.

"Bloody Monday," the wildest night in the history of the Louisiana legislature — when the voting machine unaccountably broke down amid cries of fraud and the House adjourned in riotuous confusion — gave him the time he needed to regroup his forces.

Troopers raced across the state with placards denouncing the impeachment proceeding as a "Standard Oil plot." Frenzied crowds gathered to hear the Kingfish laugh off the charges with his deft gift for ridicule and to hear him recite "Invictus," his favorite poem.

In the heat of the day, younger brother Earl Long sank his teeth into the cheek of an unfriendly official.

In the dead of night, Huey summoned 15 senators from their beds and got them to sign the famous "round-robin" that halted the impeachment for lack of votes to convict him. Huey personally ordered the carpenters to take down the scaffold-like platform erected in the Senate chamber for his trial, saying it reminded him of the French Revolution.

After that, there was no stopping him. Another revolution was in the making.

"Share the wealth," he preached, outlining a scheme to confiscate all fortunes over five million dollars and limit incomes to a million a year after taxes.

But those who tend to lump Huey Long with the ordinary run of the pea patch demagogue may underestimate his accomplishment in Louisiana and misunderstand his talents and intentions.

AND HE WAS, above all, a brilliant orator.

Listen to his campaign speech under Evangeline oak in St. Martinville, the setting for Longfellow's famous poem:

"Evangeline is not the only one who waited here in disappointment.

"Where are the schools that you have waited for your children to have, that have never come? Where are the roads and the highways that you send your money to build, that are no nearer now than ever before? Where are the institutions to care for the sick and the disabled?

"Evangeline wept bitter tears in her disappointment, but it lasted through only one lifetime. Your tears in this country, around this oak, have lasted for generations. Give me the chance to dry the eyes of those who still weep here."

Huey got the chance and he delivered. He gave Louisiana 6,000 miles of paved roads, put bridges across every major river, doubled the number of charity hospitals, gave every child free school books, reduced the number of illiterates by 100,000, increased Louisiana State University's enrollment from 1,600 to more than 5,000 by slashing tuitions, built a new executive mansion and a magnificent 34-story state capitol.

But, in the process, Louisiana got more than it bargained for. The man who boasted he could buy the legislature like a sack of potatoes, shuffle 'em like a deck of cards" set about consolidating his gains in a ruthless power grab.

Before he was done, Huey had the power to appoint and recall all mayors, police chiefs, school teachers. He could reprieve all convictions, including contempt, which gave him control of the judges.

The National Guard became his personal army, the state police his personal messenger boys. When the state bar association reprimended his attorney general for failing to prosecute a vote fraud case, Huey simply formed his own bar association and put the recalcitrant attorney general at the head of it.

He never controlled the press, but his answer to "them lying newspapers" was Louisiana Progress, his own publication delivered right to the doorstep by obliging state troopers.

Huey never forgot a friend or an enemy. The friends usually wound up in public office, the enemies in his little black "S.O.B. book."

With its numerous tributaries, the Congo River drains an African area totaling 1,450,000 square miles.

Vandal Burglarizes Home, Places Pills In Infant's Milk

Police are continuing a search for a young vandal who made a shambles of an East Liverpool home in a burglary Saturday — dumping wax and insect spray on clothing and smashing four dozen of eggs on the walls and floor of the kitchen — then contaminated a baby's milk with some old reducing pills he found in the house.

The vandal invaded the home of Mr. and Mrs. Presley Owens, 220½ Center Alley, between 2:30 and 3:30 p. m. Saturday while the family was at its garden near West Point picking tomatoes.

The loss in missing property was less than the damage which the vandal apparently inflicted for no reason, Mrs. Owens said. The intruder took a man's gold wrist watch and a woman's wrist watch, worth about $30 each, approximately 10 old coins — mostly pennies — and a cigarette lighter.

In the kitchen, the intruder mixed together all the flour, sugar and pancake flour he could find and threw it on the floor. He removed four dozen eggs from the refrigerator and hurled them against the walls and the floor.

In the couple's bedroom, the burglar removed all the clothing from the closets and dresser drawers, then smeared it with wax and an insect spray. The clothing also was dragged from the closets in the bedroom of Mrs. Owens' daughter, Mary Ellen. Four boxes of Christmas cards which the girl was to sell also were carried away. They were worth $3.95.

Mrs. Owens did not discover until Sunday that the reducing pills had been dumped into the milk placed in the refrigerator for the infant, Michael, 8 months. When she emptied the last of the milk out of one of the cardboard cartons, she discovered the residue of some of the pills in the bottom of the container.

Mrs. Owens consulted a physician, who prescribed an emetic to get the milk and medicine out of the infant's stomach. The child apparently escaped ill effects, the mother said.

2 Fallen Objects To Be Sent NASA

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Two objects that fell flaming from the sky and plowed into the back yard of an apartment house will be sent to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in Washington, police said.

Police said the small chunks landed with a hissing sound Sunday night.

Prof. Robert L. Brown of Southern Connecticut State College said: "There's a reasonably good chance that this particle may be a fragment from an orbiting satellite, possibly Sputnik IV, which broke into many particles after its launching earlier this year."

A woman told police she saw a brilliant object passing overhead about the time the objects came to earth.

Police are continuing a search for a young vandal who made a shambles of an East Liverpool home in a burglary Saturday — dumping wax and insect spray on clothing and smashing four dozen of eggs on the walls and floor of the kitchen — then contaminated a baby's milk with some old reducing pills he found in the house.

The vandal invaded the home of Mr. and Mrs. Presley Owens, 220½ Center Alley, between 2:30 and 3:30 p. m. Saturday while the family was at its garden near West Point picking tomatoes.

The loss in missing property was less than the damage which the vandal apparently inflicted for no reason, Mrs. Owens said. The intruder took a man's gold wrist watch and a woman's wrist watch, worth about $30 each, approximately 10 old coins — mostly pennies — and a cigarette lighter.

In the kitchen, the intruder mixed together all the flour, sugar and pancake flour he could find and threw it on the floor. He removed four dozen eggs from the refrigerator and hurled them against the walls and the floor.

In the couple's bedroom, the burglar removed all the clothing from the closets and dresser drawers, then smeared it with wax and an insect spray. The clothing also was dragged from the closets in the bedroom of Mrs. Owens' daughter, Mary Ellen. Four boxes of Christmas cards which the girl was to sell also were carried away. They were worth $3.95.

Mrs. Owens did not discover until Sunday that the reducing pills had been dumped into the milk placed in the refrigerator for the infant, Michael, 8 months. When she emptied the last of the milk out of one of the cardboard cartons, she discovered the residue of some of the pills in the bottom of the container.

Mrs. Owens consulted a physician, who prescribed an emetic to get the milk and medicine out of the infant's stomach. The child apparently escaped ill effects, the mother said.

2 Fallen Objects To Be Sent NASA

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Two objects that fell flaming from the sky and plowed into the back yard of an apartment house will be sent to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in Washington, police said.

Police said the small chunks landed with a hissing sound Sunday night.

Prof. Robert L. Brown of Southern Connecticut State College said: "There's a reasonably good chance that this particle may be a fragment from an orbiting satellite, possibly Sputnik IV, which broke into many particles after its launching earlier this year."

A woman told police she saw a brilliant object passing overhead about the time the objects came to earth.

A work day at the range will be arranged at a later date, Mason said.

Bids will be opened for milk and coal supplies and delegates will be chosen for the Ohio School Boards Association meeting in November.

The crowded conditions of the city's schools will also be disclosed, Armitage said.

Panhandle

making it plain his visit would be followed up.

The hearing starting today in the City-County Building is the first the Crime Commission has held since the one on Greenbrier County at which Gov. Underwood made his angry appearance to denounce the members after they heard testimony unfavorable to him and his administration.

The governor maintained that political motives have been behind the investigations, until then confined to Clay and Greenbrier counties.

The present hearing, expected to run into Saturday, came just a few days after the Internal Revenue Service released information showing the Northern Panhandle to be the center of known gambling in West Virginia.

More than $100,000 was paid from this area to the federal government for gambling machine stamps, or a sixth of that which came in for the whole state.

The IRS records showed that 410 individuals, taverns and private clubs in Ohio, Brooke, Hancock, Marshall and Wetzel counties bought 421 of the stamps, which cost $250 each a year.

The same counties, minus Wetsel, accounted for 56 of the bookie permits, or more than one quarter of the state total, and about 470, or more than half, of the federal liquor stamps.

The witnesses who testify before the commission starting today will have the choice of excluding the public and press or allowing their presence. That was one of the conditions in the act with which the last Legislature created the body.

The five senators and delegates who make it up — the Democrats are in the majority, as they were in the Legislature that created it—must have their final report ready this winter. The deadline is the end of the third week of the coming legislative session, which opens in January.

The members can, if they choose, make recommendations for changes in the state's laws.

Two Review Editorials Brought Up At Hearing

Arthur T. Thomas, editor of The Review, was among those who appeared this morning before the West Virginia Crime Commission during the first of its hearings at Wheeling.

He testified relative to two letters received in 1959 from Gov. Cecil Underwood of West Virginia which became the subject of editorials in The Review.

Mayor Of Chester, Ex-Mayor To Testify

Mayor Ray Collins of Chester and ex-mayor Burton T. Ward are among Hancock, Brook and Ohio County officials and others slated to testify before the West Virginia Crime Commission at hearings this week at Wheeling.

William (Big Bill) Lias, who years ago said he had resigned as underworld leader of the upper Ohio Valley, and Charles Teemer, former proprietor of Club 30 near Chester, have not been located by authorities seeking to serve them subpoenas to testify.

Some 50 city and county officials, police, coin machine distributors, club operators and gamblers from the northern Panhandle are due to appear at the five-day session which began today.

After Labor Day Attacks On GOP

Kennedy Takes Campaign To Northwest Area Today

By The Associated Press

Democratic presidential nominee John F. Kennedy carries his campaign to the Northwest today after Labor Day attacks in Michigan on Republican economic and foreign policies.

His GOP opponent, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, was cheered by the word that he may be able to leave Walter Reed Army Hospital Saturday instead of Sunday. Doctors reported he was making a fine recovery from the knee infection that hospitalized him a week ago.

Nixon, who has been working on campaign plans from his hospital bed, plans to leave next Monday on a 9,000-mile campaign swing.

Kennedy campaigns today in Pocatello, Idaho, Spokane and Seattle, Wash. He will make speeches Wednesday in Oregon before leaving Portland by train for a two-day whistle stop tour through California.

In an address prepared for a Pocatello rally, Kennedy said that "to assert leadership abroad requires that we assert leadership at home. It requires that we move ahead on every front and on every frontier. And we have not been moving ahead in recent years."

Thousands turned out Monday to greet Kennedy at Detroit, Flint and Muskegon, Mich. He contended the Republicans were stifling economic growth and failing to provide proper leadership.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, Kennedy's running mate, spent the weekend at his Texas ranch near Austin. He will speak Thursday in Boston and campaign Friday in Hartford, Conn., and New York City before returning to Washington on Saturday.

Henry Cabot Lodge, Nixon's running mate, makes the first formal speech of his campaign today in the high school at Abington, Pa. Accompanied by New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, Lodge campaigned over the holiday weekend at beaches in the New York area. Thousands of bathers greeted them as they toured by helicopter — shaking hands, patting babies and munching on hot dogs.

Former President Harry S. Truman spoke at Marion, Ind., in behalf of the Kennedy-Johnson ticket. He said continuation of a Republican administration probably would lead to "depression and real disaster."

Political footnotes:

The Saturday Evening Post has endorsed Nixon for the presidency. The Post supported Eisenhower in 1952 and 1956.

Sen. Frank Church, (D-Idaho), told a rally at Worcester, Mass., that a Democratic president and a Democratic Congress are needed to meet the Soviet challenge and to provide sound social welfare legislation.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson told a county fair crowd at Chesterfield, Va., that Kennedy executed a "complete flipflop in his farm voting record" when he began thinking about running for president.

175 Attend First Annual Fete Held For City NAACP Chapter

Some 175 attended the first annual dinner of the East Liverpool branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People Monday night at the Wellsville Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 9285 home.

William L. Summers of Detroit, civic, social and fraternal affairs leader, spoke on desegregation and civil rights.

Miss Serena Davis of Columbus, field secretary for the NAACP, spoke briefly on the state program, stressing the drive to register to vote.

Thomas Lee of Pittsburgh also spoke. Mayor William Shoub of Wellsville made a welcome address, and welcoming greetings from Mayor Bert Goodballet of East Liverpool were read by Caesar Peters, president.

Mrs. Rose Charlotte Jackson sang a solo, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Virgil Stitt. The two Chicago women are the daughters of the late Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Whitfield who served the Second Baptist Church in the East End a number of years ago.

The invocation and benediction were given by the Rev. J. G. Lassiter, and music was provided by the Del Palmer orchestra.

4 Get Suspended Fines For Vagrancy Charges

Four men arrested Friday in an improvised shack off Walnut St. were given suspended fines of $25 and costs when they pleaded guilty today before Acting Municipal Judge Paul Tobin on vagrancy charges.

The men were identified as Nelson Barcus, 938 Railroad St., Edward Sterling of Calcutta, Harold Amos of Fairview St. and Tracy Filler of Clarksburg. Police said the four were jailed after complaints they were begging from pedestrians.

The acting judge said he showed leniency to the four because they already had spent four days in jail while awaiting arraignment.

Group At Pine Grove Plans Benefit Supper

HAMMONDSVILLE — A baked ham and meatloaf supper will be served at the Fellowship Hall at Huygheville Saturday night from 5 to 7 by the Rural Sisters of the Pine Grove Methodist Church.

Proceeds will be used for erection of a belfry on the church.

Spending On New Plants, Machines Below Estimates

WASHINGTON (AP)—Business spending for new plants and machines now is expected to fall short of earlier estimates for the year, although it still is 12 per cent above last year.

The new estimate came Monday from the Commerce Department and the Securities and Exchange Commission, based on a survey of business plans during late July and August.

It showed October-December capital spending plans unchanged from the $36.9 billion annual rate of the current quarter, and put the estimated 1960 total at $36.37 billion instead of the $37 billion that had been forecast officially earlier in the year. The 1959 total was $32.5 billion.

Capital spending has been rising each quarter for the last two years. The lack of a gain for the final quarter of the year added a new note of uncertainty to the business outlook. An increase would have helped to boost the economy.

Detroit Wins Ninth NABF Championship

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—A home run hitting Detroit team won its ninth National Amateur Baseball Federation championship Monday by edging Youngstown, Ohio, in the final game, 7-6.

Detroit socked three of its 15 tournament homers in the Youngstown clash. Earlier in the day, Detroit ousted Flint, Mich., 7-3, with all Detroit's tallies on three home runs.

4 Drivers Pay $74 On Traffic Counts

Four motorists paid $74 in fines, costs and forfeits today in Municipal Court for traffic violations.

Ernest Suttle of Bradley, W. Va., forfeited $31 on a State Highway Patrol charge he crashed a stop sign Sunday at the intersection of Routes 7 and 30.

Perlie Young Jr., 26, of Youngstown, also cited by the patrol Sunday, was fined $15 and costs on a charge of crossing over a yellow line on Route 30.

John W. Dallas of Hammondsville R. D. 1 was fined $10 and costs on a charge of speeding 60 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone on Pennsylvania Ave. at 12:50 a.m. today. The fine was suspended on payment of the $6 costs.

Gene Jarvis, 470 Mulberry St., forfeited $56 on an illegal auto registration charge. He was cited Friday.

Notre Dame's football team lost eight men from last season's first string, including George Izo and Don White who alternated at quarterback.

Panhandle

making it plain his visit would be followed up.

The hearing starting today in the City-County Building is the first the Crime Commission has held since the one on Greenbrier County at which Gov. Underwood made his angry appearance to denounce the members after they heard testimony unfavorable to him and his administration.

The governor maintained that political motives have been behind the investigations, until then confined to Clay and Greenbrier counties.

The present hearing, expected to run into Saturday, came just a few days after the Internal Revenue Service released information showing the Northern Panhandle to be the center of known gambling in West Virginia.

More than $100,000 was paid from this area to the federal government for gambling machine stamps, or a sixth of that which came in for the whole state.

The IRS records showed that 410 individuals, taverns and private clubs in Ohio, Brooke, Hancock, Marshall and Wetzel counties bought 421 of the stamps, which cost $250 each a year.

The same counties, minus Wetsel, accounted for 56 of the bookie permits, or more than one quarter of the state total, and about 470, or more than half, of the federal liquor stamps.

The witnesses who testify before the commission starting today will have the choice of excluding the public and press or allowing their presence. That was one of the conditions in the act with which the last Legislature created the body.

The five senators and delegates who make it up — the Democrats are in the majority, as they were in the Legislature that created it—must have their final report ready this winter. The deadline is the end of the third week of the coming legislative session, which opens in January.

The members can, if they choose, make recommendations for changes in the state's laws.

Two Review Editorials Brought Up At Hearing

Arthur T. Thomas, editor of The Review, was among those who appeared this morning before the West Virginia Crime Commission during the first of its hearings at Wheeling.

He testified relative to two letters received in 1959 from Gov. Cecil Underwood of West Virginia which became the subject of editorials in The Review.

Mayor Of Chester, Ex-Mayor To Testify

Mayor Ray Collins of Chester and ex-mayor Burton T. Ward are among Hancock, Brook and Ohio County officials and others slated to testify before the West Virginia Crime Commission at hearings this week at Wheeling.

William (Big Bill) Lias, who years ago said he had resigned as underworld leader of the upper Ohio Valley, and Charles Teemer, former proprietor of Club 30 near Chester, have not been located by authorities seeking to serve them subpoenas to testify.

Some 50 city and county officials, police, coin machine distributors, club operators and gamblers from the northern Panhandle are due to appear at the five-day session which began today.

After Labor Day Attacks On GOP

Kennedy Takes Campaign To Northwest Area Today

By The Associated Press

Democratic presidential nominee John F. Kennedy carries his campaign to the Northwest today after Labor Day attacks in Michigan on Republican economic and foreign policies.

His GOP opponent, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, was cheered by the word that he may be able to leave Walter Reed Army Hospital Saturday instead of Sunday. Doctors reported he was making a fine recovery from the knee infection that hospitalized him a week ago.

Nixon, who has been working on campaign plans from his hospital bed, plans to leave next Monday on a 9,000-mile campaign swing.

Kennedy campaigns today in Pocatello, Idaho, Spokane and Seattle, Wash. He will make speeches Wednesday in Oregon before leaving Portland by train for a two-day whistle stop tour through California.

In an address prepared for a Pocatello rally, Kennedy said that "to assert leadership abroad requires that we assert leadership at home. It requires that we move ahead on every front and on every frontier. And we have not been moving ahead in recent years."

Thousands turned out Monday to greet Kennedy at Detroit, Flint and Muskegon, Mich. He contended the Republicans were stifling economic growth and failing to provide proper leadership.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, Kennedy's running mate, spent the weekend at his Texas ranch near Austin. He will speak Thursday in Boston and campaign Friday in Hartford, Conn., and New York City before returning to Washington on Saturday.

Henry Cabot Lodge, Nixon's running mate, makes the first formal speech of his campaign today in the high school at Abington, Pa. Accompanied by New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, Lodge campaigned over the holiday weekend at beaches in the New York area. Thousands of bathers greeted them as they toured by helicopter — shaking hands, patting babies and munching on hot dogs.

Former President Harry S. Truman spoke at Marion, Ind., in behalf of the Kennedy-Johnson ticket. He said continuation of a Republican administration probably would lead to "depression and real disaster."

Political footnotes:

The Saturday Evening Post has endorsed Nixon for the presidency. The Post supported Eisenhower in 1952 and 1956.

Sen. Frank Church, (D-Idaho), told a rally at Worcester, Mass., that a Democratic president and a Democratic Congress are needed to meet the Soviet challenge and to provide sound social welfare legislation.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson told a county fair crowd at Chesterfield, Va., that Kennedy executed a "complete flipflop in his farm voting record" when he began thinking about running for president.

175 Attend First Annual Fete Held For City NAACP Chapter

Some 175 attended the first annual dinner of the East Liverpool branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People Monday night at the Wellsville Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 9285 home.

William L. Summers of Detroit, civic, social and fraternal affairs leader, spoke on desegregation and civil rights.

Miss Serena Davis of Columbus, field secretary for the NAACP, spoke briefly on the state program, stressing the drive to register to vote.

Thomas Lee of Pittsburgh also spoke. Mayor William Shoub of Wellsville made a welcome address, and welcoming greetings from Mayor Bert Goodballet of East Liverpool were read by Caesar Peters, president.

Mrs. Rose Charlotte Jackson sang a solo, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Virgil Stitt. The two Chicago women are the daughters of the late Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Whitfield who served the Second Baptist Church in the East End a number of years ago.

The invocation and benediction were given by the Rev. J. G. Lassiter, and music was provided by the Del Palmer orchestra.

4 Get Suspended Fines For Vagrancy Charges

Four men arrested Friday in an improvised shack off Walnut St. were given suspended fines of $25 and costs when they pleaded guilty today before Acting Municipal Judge Paul Tobin on vagrancy charges.

The men were identified as Nelson Barcus, 938 Railroad St., Edward Sterling of Calcutta, Harold Amos of Fairview St. and Tracy Filler of Clarksburg. Police said the four were jailed after complaints they were begging from pedestrians.

The acting judge said he showed leniency to the four because they already had spent four days in jail while awaiting arraignent.

Group At Pine Grove Plans Benefit Supper

HAMMONDSVILLE — A baked ham and meatloaf supper will be served at the Fellowship Hall at Huygheville Saturday night from 5 to 7 by the Rural Sisters of the Pine Grove Methodist Church.

Proceeds will be used for erection of a belfry on the church.

Spending On New Plants, Machines Below Estimates

WASHINGTON (AP)—Business spending for new plants and machines now is expected to fall short of earlier estimates for the year, although it still is 12 per cent above last year.

The new estimate came Monday from the Commerce Department and the Securities and Exchange Commission, based on a survey of business plans during late July and August.

It showed October-December capital spending plans unchanged from the $36.9 billion annual rate of the current quarter, and put the estimated 1960 total at $36.37 billion instead of the $37 billion that had been forecast officially earlier in the year. The 1959 total was $32.5 billion.

Capital spending has been rising each quarter for the last two years. The lack of a gain for the final quarter of the year added a new note of uncertainty to the business outlook. An increase would have helped to boost the economy.

Detroit Wins Ninth NABF Championship

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—A home run hitting Detroit team won its ninth National Amateur Baseball Federation championship Monday by edging Youngstown, Ohio, in the final game, 7-6.

Detroit socked three of its 15 tournament homers in the Youngstown clash. Earlier in the day, Detroit ousted Flint, Mich., 7-3, with all Detroit's tallies on three home runs.

4 Drivers Pay $74 On Traffic Counts

Four motorists paid $74 in fines, costs and forfeits today in Municipal Court for traffic violations.

Ernest Suttle of Bradley, W. Va., forfeited $31 on a State Highway Patrol charge he crashed a stop sign Sunday at the intersection of Routes 7 and 30.

Perlie Young Jr., 26, of Youngstown, also cited by the patrol Sunday, was fined $15 and costs on a charge of crossing over a yellow line on Route 30.

John W. Dallas of Hammondsville R. D. 1 was fined $10 and costs on a charge of speeding 60 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone on Pennsylvania Ave. at 12:50 a.m. today. The fine was suspended on payment of the $6 costs.

Gene Jarvis, 470 Mulberry St., forfeited $56 on an illegal auto registration charge. He was cited Friday.

Notre Dame's football team lost eight men from last season's first string, including George Izo and Don White who alternated at quarterback.

Things Columnist Learns

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Women today have the political power to elect a U.S. lady president anytime they choose.... They outnumber men of voting age by about 5,200,000 so the hand that rocks the cradle now can rule the ballot box, too.

If you're bored with your job, you'd better do something about it pronto.... tests show that when bored you are much more likely to make mistakes in judgement.

Wild geese have the greatest longevity of any birds except parrots and vultures.... Some are known to have lived to 70.

Did you ever see anyone named Gwyllyn?.. Of course, you have .... That's movie star Glenn Ford's real first name.

Speaking of names, Kennedy and Nixon are cave guides in the Meramec Caverns at Stanton, Mo.

The telephone companies in New York and Hollywood have set aside a long list of dummy phone numbers for use in films and TV dramatic programs. So that's why they never get a wrong number in the movies!

Is you child a head-banger?... Well, cheer up, he may be a musical genius.... It has been discovered that head-banging infants have a highly developed sense of rhythm.

"Buffalo bill" Body, the colorful frontiersman and showman, enlarged the American vocabulary by coining these terms: "Wild West," "rough rider," and "dude ranch."

Quips from our contemporaries: The Catholic digest reports this sign on a hitch-hiker's suitcase: "Undecided voter. Pick me up and convince me!"

We are no longer a stay-at-home people . . . . About 1.5 million Americans now earn their living in other countries.

Tip to smokers: You absorb 90 per cent of the nicotine in a cigarette if you inhale, only 10 per cent if you don't.

Can you name the largest English - speaking nation after the United States and the United Kingdom?. . . . Well, it's the Philippine Islands.

The stronger sex: Only one out of four ulcer victims is a woman.

Driver Cited As Auto Hits Car Of Constable

HANOVERTON — A 21-year-old Kensington area motorist faces a hearing for reckless operation filed by Constable Roy Painter after the officer's car was struck on Route 9 Sunday night.

Robert Dean Beadnell of Kensington R. D. 1 is due a hearing before Mayor William Loudon.

Constable Painter reported he was on the alert for "hotrodders" in the area and had pulled across the highway about 2 blocks north of Route 30 with his auto's red light on when the car was hit by Beadnell's, headed south.

Damage to the cars was estimated at $200 each.

Things Columnist Learns

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Women today have the political power to elect a U.S. lady president anytime they choose.... They outnumber men of voting age by about 5,200,000 so the hand that rocks the cradle now can rule the ballot box, too.

If you're bored with your job, you'd better do something about it pronto.... tests show that when bored you are much more likely to make mistakes in judgement.

Wild geese have the greatest longevity of any birds except parrots and vultures.... Some are known to have lived to 70.

Did you ever see anyone named Gwyllyn?.., Of course, you have .... That's movie star Glenn Ford's real first name.

Speaking of names, Kennedy and Nixon are cave guides in the Meramec Caverns at Stanton, Mo.

The telephone companies in New York and Hollywood have set aside a long list of dummy phone numbers for use in films and TV dramatic programs. So that's why they never get a wrong number in the movies!

Is you child a head-banger?... Well, cheer up, he may be a musical genius.... It has been discovered that head-banging infants have a highly developed sense of rhythm.

"Buffalo bill" Body, the colorful frontiersman and showman, enlarged the American vocabulary by coining these terms: "Wild West," "rough rider," and "dude ranch."

Quips from our contemporaries: The Catholic digest reports this sign on a hitch-hiker's suitcase: "Undecided voter. Pick me up and convince me!"

We are no longer a stay-at-home people .... About 1.5 million Americans now earn their living in other countries.

Tip to smokers: You absorb 90 per cent of the nicotine in a cigarette if you inhale, only 10 per cent if you don't.

Can you name the largest English - speaking nation after the United States and the United Kingdom?.... Well, it's the Philippine Islands.

The stronger sex: Only one out of four ulcer victims is a woman.

Wisecrack of the week: Actor Walter Slezak says, "A man who can read handwriting on the wall generally has small children in the house."

The daily newspaper is still the people's university.... Americans buy an average of 40,500 newspapers every minute.

Reducing Together—Family Style

When the whole family joins together and everyone gets into the spirit of the thing, calorie curbing becomes a game. In today's story, the family added the wager incentive. A teen-ager in Indiana reports: "I'd like to tell of our dieting experience. For months, mom and I dieted spasmodically . . . a week or so of dieting very strictly, then quitting. We finally became desperate and agreed on a dollar penalty for every break over a thousand calories, even if it's only one bite. The only exception is that if one of us is away from home and unable to count calories; but then we had to eat lightly. I'm happy to report that neither of us has had to pay the first dollar and it is now five and a half weeks later.

By Ida Jean Kain

"TWO WEEKS ago, my sister who is thirteen joined us. Not to be outdone, my poor dad, who couldn't get his breath and claimed his britches were shrinking, jumped on the diet wagon, too.

"To go back a bit. Mom weighed 243 pounds for 5'3". She now weighs 210 pounds and plans to reduce to 150 pounds. She hopes to reach that this year.

"My sister (13) weighed in at 129 pounds, with a 29½-inch waist. She hasn't been on a scale since but she has a 27-inch waist now.

"Dad weighed in at 232½ pounds and is 6 feet. He lost 5½ pounds the first week of the diet. His goal is 185 pounds. I am 18 years old, 5'6" tall and weighed in at 183 pounds. Five weeks ago my measurements were 39-30-42. They are now 39-29-41½. I weigh 160 pounds. My problem measurement is my thighs. I need special exercises.

"Mom and I stay right at 1000 calories a day, or slightly under; the 13-year-old at 1250; my dad at 1500 calories. I'm scorekeeper and always see to it that we have a few calories left over. Mom and I work together figuring out how to cut calories from favorite dishes. It makes it easier when calories are eliminated in the kitchen. Any tips you have to pass along, or special exercises, will be appreciated."

WHAT A wonderful teen-ager! The real secret of success in slimming is interest. This whole family, eager to reduce, has devised ways to enliven their interest. . . the competition and the wager on the side.

By ingenious ways and means of cutting calories in the kitchen, they are finding it fun to reduce together. We will be eager to hear from this family again.

Send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope for Mr. and Mrs. Reducing Plan. Address request to Ida Jean Kain in care of this newspaper. Postcard requests cannot be answered.

District Parks Draw Crowds On Labor Day

The mercury hovered in the mid-80's with low humidity to make ideal weather for Labor Day and district parks were crowded for the last holiday of summer.

Harry Springer, lockmaster at Dam 8, said the temperature hit a high of 84 degrees at 2 p. m. after a cloudy forenoon. The sun broke through in the afternoon and not a drop of rain fell. The day dawned with an overnight low of only 72.

Large crowds jammed Raccoon Creek State Park over the weekend, according to park personnel.

An estimated 14,445 enjoyed the picnic facilities while some 12,000 went swimming. About 1,835 sightseers were present. Some 475 utilized the boats and 195 fishermen were counted.

The park had 727 campers over the weekend. Nine different states were represented including one group from Ont., Canada.

Picnicking employes of the Wheeling Steel Co. boosted the Labor Day attendance at Rock Springs Park to 20,000, one of the largest holiday crowds in recent years, park officials reported today. A concert, dance reveue and evening dancing were featured.

The park will remain open on Sundays until further notice.

Reducing Together—Family Style

When the whole family joins together and everyone gets into the spirit of the thing, calorie curbing becomes a game. In today's story, the family added the wager incentive. A teen-ager in Indiana reports: "I'd like to tell of our dieting experience. For months, mom and I dieted spasmodically . . . a week or so of dieting very strictly, then quitting. We finally became desperate and agreed on a dollar penalty for every break over a thousand calories, even if it's only one bite. The only exception is that if one of us is away from home and unable to count calories; but then we had to eat lightly. I'm happy to report that neither of us has had to pay the first dollar and it is now five and a half weeks later.

"TWO WEEKS ago, my sister who is thirteen joined us. Not to be outdone, my poor dad, who couldn't get his breath and claimed his britches were shrinking, jumped on the diet wagon, too.

"To go back a bit. Mom weighed 245 pounds for 5'3". She now weighs 210 pounds and plans to reduce to 150 pounds. She hopes to reach that this year.

"My sister (13) weighed in at 129 pounds, with a 29½-inch waist. She hasn't been on a scale since but she has a 27-inch waist now.

"Dad weighed in at 232½ pounds and is 6 feet. He lost 5½ pounds the first week of the diet. His goal is 185 pounds. I am 18 years old, 5'6" tall and weighed in at 183 pounds. Five weeks ago my measurements were 39-30-42. They are now 39-29-41½. I weigh 160 pounds. My problem measurement is my thighs. I need special exercises.

"Mom and I stay right at 1000 calories a day, or slightly under; the 13-year-old at 1250; my dad at 1500 calories. I'm scorekeeper and always see to it that we have a few calories left over. Mom and I work together figuring out how to cut calories from favorite dishes. It makes it easier when calories are eliminated in the kitchen. Any tips you have to pass along, or special exercises, will be appreciated."

WHAT A wonderful teen-ager! The real secret of success in slimming is interest. This whole family, eager to reduce, has devised ways to enliven their interest. . . the competition and the wager on the side.

By ingenious ways and means of cutting calories in the kitchen, they are finding it fun to reduce together. We will be eager to hear from this family again.

Total Proves Officials Too Pessimistic

Holiday Wrecks Claim 17 In Ohio

Traffic	17
Boating	4
Drowning	4
Miscellaneous	4
Total	29

By The Associated Press

Ohio has proved safety officials too pessimistic in predicting 29 traffic fatalities over the holiday weekend as the Buckeye State wound up with the lowest Labor Day period highway toll in the last five years.

In fact, it took combination of traffic deaths, boating accidents, non-boating drownings and miscellaneous fatalities to reach their predicted numbers. In the latter three categories the fatalities ran 4, 4 and 4, respectively.

On the highways, 17 persons lost their lives during the 78-hour period from 6 p.m. Friday through midnight Monday, according to an Associated Press survey.

This compares with the 23 that were killed on the state's road over the 78-hour labor dayweek-end in 1957. Up to now, that had been the lowest Labor Day toll since the 1955 holiday when 33 met death in traffic—and that figure hasn't been reached since.

The Memorial Day and July 4th weekends this year a total of 63 persons were killed on the highways — 34 and 29, respectively, over each holiday. Last Labor Day weekend, the figure was 31.

J. Grant Keys, state highway safety director, emphasizing he was delighted over the low toll, said he felt it was the result of the "splendid cooperation" of the Ohio Highway Patrol and other law enforcement agencies in their all-out campaign to make highways safer over the holiday weekend.

"Then, too," added Keys, "we must give the motorists credit."

There was only one accident that took more than one life this weekend. A car smashed into a tree near Waverly, killing two youths.

The toll narrowly missed rising sharply Monday. A Greyhound bus with 24 passengers collided broadside with a car making a U-turn on Ohio 16. A mother and her four children in the auto were injured, along with a pedestrian who was hit by flying debris.

But none of the bus passengers or the bus driver was reported hurt.

The weekend fatalities:

Friday Night

Jeffrey Pruden, 6, struck by a car in front of his home at Lockbourne Air Force Base near Columbus.

Thomas A. Sherrill, 17, Batavia, when his motorcycle collided with a car on Ohio 74 four miles east of that Clermont County town.

Leonard R. Bahnsen, 18, Oak Harbor, when his car left Ohio 105 and crashed into a tree five miles west of that Ottawa County town.

Faye Ellen Mcuhmore, 11, Lorain, drowned in the Black River near her home after apparently falling off the 10-foot river bank.

Michael Straits, 5, Lancaster, when he fell nine feet from a patio atop the garage at his home and landed on his head.

Saturday

Andrew Uremovich, 32, Lima, when his car struck a bridge abutment there.

Mrs. Margaret Newberry, 39, Chardon, when she apparently lost control of her car after it struck a chuckhole on Bundyside Road, in Ashtabula County near the Geauga County line, and the vehicle smashed into a tree.

Robert Leon Mustard, 17, Rt. 2, Piketon, and Elmer Francis, 18, Rt. 3, Waverly, when the car Mustard was driving left Ohio 124 seven miles south of Waverly and struck a tree.

Dominic D'Allesandra, 20, Follansbee, W. Va., drowned after going swimming at East Harbor State Park near Port Clinton.

Deborah Collins, 6, Reynoldsburg, drowned in the pool at Buckeye Lake Amusement Park (Licking County).

Doris Jean Butcher, 2 months old, apparently suffocated when her head was caught between the cushion and back of an overstuffed chair in her Columbus home.

Albert Hardest, 78, and Roman Schott, 62, both of Cincinnati, when their boat overturned at a private fishing lake in Colerain Twp. (Hamilton County).

Total Proves Officials Too Pessimistic

Holiday Wrecks Claim 17 In Ohio

Traffic	17
Boating	4
Drowning	4
Miscellaneous	4
Total	29

By The Associated Press

Ohio has proved safety officials too pessimistic in predicting 29 traffic fatalities over the holiday weekend as the Buckeye State wound up with the lowest Labor Day period highway toll in the last five years.

In fact, it took combination of traffic deaths, boating accidents, non-boating drownings and miscellaneous fatalities to reach their predicted numbers. In the latter three categories the fatalities ran 4, 4 and 4, respectively.

On the highways, 17 persons lost their lives during the 78-hour period from 6 p.m. Friday through midnight Monday, according to an Associated Press survey.

This compares with the 23 that were killed on the state's road over the 78-hour labor dayweekend in 1957. Up to now, that had been the lowest Labor Day toll since the 1955 holiday when 33 met death in traffic—and that figure hasn't been reached since.

The Memorial Day and July 4th weekends this year a total of 63 persons were killed on the highways — 34 and 29, respectively, over each holiday. Last Labor Day weekend, the figure was 31.

J. Grant Keys, state highway safety director, emphasizing he was delighted over the low toll, said he felt it was the result of the "splendid cooperation" of the Ohio Highway Patrol and other law enforcement agencies in their all-out campaign to make highways safer over the holiday weekend.

"Then, too," added Keys, "we must give the motorists credit."

There was only one accident that took more than one life this weekend. A car smashed into a tree near Waverly, killing two youths.

The toll narrowly missed rising sharply Monday. A Greyhound bus with 24 passengers collided broadside with a car making a U-turn on Ohio 16. A mother and her four children in the auto were injured, along with a pedestrian who was hit by flying debris.

But none of the bus passengers or the bus driver was reported hurt.

Out Of The Air

By MARIE TORRE

Cowboy Of Lion Courage

The task ahead of us is agreeable! It involves the dissemination of news about a bold and daring "cowboy," who really is a man of lion courage (faith - restoring words in these times when "Lassie" parades as a girl dog and fluffy cake icing in TV commercials is nothing more than aerated shaving cream). This genuine hero is the original "Maverick," James Garner, who is wrangling with a more formidable opponent than any of the bounders he encountered in the Western series. He's picked a fight with the whole Warner Bros. studio.

Marie Torre

IT MAY BE a credit to Garner's prowess that there's not a scratch on him, but the result of the tiff with the Brothers Warner could have a more devastating effect on Garner. Starvation, for example.

When Garner walked off the Warner lot in retaliation for an eight-week layoff during the writers' strike last March ("There's no layoff clause in my contract"), the studio filed a suit, automatically suspending him from further participation in television and movies.

Garner filed a counter-suit on the basis of breach of contract, seeking a year's back pay and his contractual release.

But unemployed he'll not be!

-:-

WHILE THE LEGAL machinery in Los Angeles has been set in motion for a court airing in November or December of this year, Garner has been biding his time in an eight-week summer theater tour as the John in "John Loves Mary."

The tour is being concluded in Warren, Ohio, this week, and then what'll he do?

"Go home . . . play a little golf. Having made more money in summer stock than I've ever made at Warner's, I can afford to take it easy for awhile."

The suit has put a halt to TV and motion picture offers to Garner, but he allows there are other ways to make a living.

-:-

"I COULD PLAY night clubs," he said. "I also could take plays on tour, as I'm doing now. There was talk about Warner Bros. suing even theater owners who employ me, so I've been indemnifying them against loss."

Garner's inability to pursue his career with shackles of litigation is unfortunate at this time, he being on the brink of becoming a full-fledged star. But he has no regrets.

"I've only done what I felt I had to do," he said. "The Warner contracts for newcomers, such as I was, are downright inequitable. If I knew then what I know now, I never would have signed with Warner Bros.

"I do, of course, have my regrets about not being in the series next year. 'Maverick' has been wonderful to me. I'll miss being in it, even though it did give me an ulcer . . . which flares up only when I get a letter from Warners!"

ABC MAY BE popularly regarded as the "poorest" of the three networks, but it outbid NBC and CBS for TV and radio rights to the annual "Oscar" Awards presentation for the next five years. The sum: $561,000 per year. First "Oscar" show on ABC will take place in the spring of 1961. . . .

Groucho Marx seems to have a newly acquired penchant for book shows. Last season it was Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Mikado"; this season, it may be "The Magical Monarchoof Mo," written in 1908 "The Wizard of Oz." . . .

How hungry are viewers for fresh entertainment during these re-run-happy days? "Celebrity Talent Scouts," with Sam Levenson, drew 34.1 per cent share of audience Monday night, more than Danny Thomas pulled the night he went off TV for the summer.

Senate Unit Set To Air Prices On Antibiotic Drugs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Winding up a year-long series of hearings, a Senate subcommittee turns its attention this week to prices of antibiotic drugs.

The hearings before the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee open Wednesday and are to continue through next Wednesday. Prices of other kinds of drugs have been studied at the earlier sessions.

Committee aides said no further public investigations into drug prices are scheduled after the current series. Attention then will be given to drafting possible legislation to tighten antitrust laws and compel more price competition.

Chairman Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., has said repeatedly that the hearings have shown what he called unconscionable profit margins by some manufacturers in the prices they charge for newer drugs. The subcommittee has not looked into retail price markups.

Book Says British War Hero Had Limited Military Talent

LONDON (AP)—A book being published today calls Field Marshall Viscount Montgomery a self-publicizing meanie with limited military talent. It also maintains Montgomery's victory at El Alamein was won in an unnecessary battle.

These charges are made by a former British army sergeant, Correlli Barnett, who was only 12 when Montgomery's forces fought with German Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's Afrika Korps in North Africa in the autumn of 1942.

British Sunday newspapers predicted the book, "The Desert Generals," will add new fuel to the who-won-the-war arguments which have been going on since 1945.

One paper, The People, quoted Montgomery as saying he had never heard of Barnett and had no intention of reading the book. The reviewer in the Sunday Observer said some of the book's charges have been whispered by some military men for 15 years "and perhaps it is as well they should come into the open."

Barnett studied the theory of war at Exeter College, Oxford.

His main thesis revolves around this point: El Alamein, fought on the approaches to Cairo, took place only a couple of weeks before the American-British landing in French North Africa. Those landings guaranteed that Montgomery would win since Rommel would have to retreat to avoid being trapped.

The Homestake Mine in South Dakota, opened in 1879, has produced $400 million worth of gold and is still being mined.

Missing Ex-U.S. Employes Granted Asylum By Soviets

LONDON (AP) — Bernon F. Mitchell and William H. Martin, missing former employes of a U.S. intelligence agency, told a news conference in Moscow today they have been granted political asylum by the Soviet government, Moscow radio reported.

Mitchell and Martin, former intelligence specialists with the National Security Agency, a top secret organization, left Ft. Meade, Md., late in June, and nothing had been heard directly from them until the Moscow broadcast.

Rep. John W. McCormack, D-Mass., said on Aug. 30 that the two men, bachelors and close friends, had taken with them "valuable cryptographic information" —information concerning secret codes.

A State Department spokesman declined immediate comment on the Moscow broadcast.

The agency with which Mitchell and Martin worked was a defense unit engaged around the clock in intercepting radio signals and in communications intelligence.

The two men left in June, ostensibly to visit their families in the western United States. But they did not show up there, and their movements later were traced to Mexico and then to Cuba. The Pentagon said earlier last month that it was presumed they had gone "behind the Iron Curtain."

Out Of The Air

By MARIE TORRE

Cowboy Of Lion Courage

The task ahead of us is agreeable! It involves the dissemination of news about a bold and daring "cowboy," who really is a man of lion courage (faith - restoring words in these times when "Lassie" parades as a girl dog and fluffy cake icing in TV commercials is nothing more than aerated shaving cream). This genuine hero is the original "Maverick," James Garner, who is wrangling with a more formidable opponent than any of the bounders he encountered in the Western series. He's picked a fight with the whole Warner Bros. studio.

Marie Torre

IT MAY BE a credit to Garner's prowess that there's not a scratch on him, but the result of the tiff with the Brothers Warner could have a more devastating effect on Garner. Starvation, for example.

When Garner walked off the Warner lot in retaliation for an eight-week layoff during the writers' strike last March ("There's no layoff clause in my contract"), the studio filed a suit, automatically suspending him from further participation in television and movies.

Garner filed a counter-suit on the basis of breach of contract, seeking a year's back pay and his contractual release.

But unemployed he'll not be!

-:-

WHILE THE LEGAL machinery in Los Angeles has been set in motion for a court airing in November or December of this year, Garner has been biding his time in an eight-week summer theater tour as the John in "John Loves Mary."

The tour is being concluded in Warren, Ohio, this week, and then what'll he do?

"Go home . . . play a little golf. Having made more money in summer stock than I've ever made at Warner's, I can afford to take it easy for awhile."

The suit has put a halt to TV and motion picture offers to Garner, but he allows there are other ways to make a living.

-:-

"I COULD PLAY night clubs," he said. "I also could take plays on tour, as I'm doing now. There was talk about Warner Bros. suing even theater owners who employ me, so I've been indemnifying them against loss."

Garner's inability to pursue his career with shackles of litigation is unfortunate at this time, he being on the brink of becoming a full-fledged star. But he has no regrets.

"I've only done what I felt I had to do," he said. "The Warner contracts for newcomers, such as I was, are downright inequitable. If I knew then what I know now, I never would have signed with Warner Bros.

"I do, of course, have my regrets about not being in the series next year. 'Maverick' has been wonderful to me. I'll miss being in it, even though it did give me an ulcer . . . which flares up only when I get a letter from Warners!"

ABC MAY BE popularly regarded as the "poorest" of the three networks, but it outbid NBC and CBS for TV and radio rights to the annual "Oscar" Awards presentation for the next five years. The sum: $561,000 per year. First "Oscar" show on ABC will take place in the spring of 1961. . . .

Groucho Marx seems to have a newly acquired penchant for book shows. Last season it was Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Mikado"; this season, it may be "The Magical Monarchoof Mo," written in 1908 "The Wizard of Oz." . . .

How hungry are viewers for fresh entertainment during these re-run-happy days? "Celebrity Talent Scouts," with Sam Levenson, drew 34.1 per cent share of audience Monday night, more than Danny Thomas pulled the night he went off TV for the summer.

Senate Unit Set To Air Prices On Antibiotic Drugs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Winding up a year-long series of hearings, a Senate subcommittee turns its attention this week to prices of antibiotic drugs.

The hearings before the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee open Wednesday and are to continue through next Wednesday. Prices of other kinds of drugs have been studied at the earlier sessions.

Committee aides said no further public investigations into drug prices are scheduled after the current series. Attention then will be given to drafting possible legislation to tighten antitrust laws and compel more price competition.

Chairman Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., has said repeatedly that the hearings have shown what he called unconscionable profit margins by some manufacturers in the prices they charge for newer drugs. The subcommittee has not looked into retail price markups.

Book Says British War Hero Had Limited Military Talent

LONDON (AP)—A book being published today calls Field Marshall Viscount Montgomery a self-publicizing meanie with limited military talent. It also maintains Montgomery's victory at El Alamein was won in an unnecessary battle.

These charges are made by a former British army sergeant, Correlli Barnett, who was only 12 when Montgomery's forces fought with German Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's Afrika Korps in North Africa in the autumn of 1942.

British Sunday newspapers predicted the book, "The Desert Generals," will add new fuel to the who-won-the-war arguments which have been going on since 1945.

One paper, The People, quoted Montgomery as saying he had never heard of Barnett and had no intention of reading the book. The reviewer in the Sunday Observer said some of the book's charges have been whispered by some military men for 15 years "and perhaps it is as well they should come into the open."

Barnett studied the theory of war at Exeter College, Oxford.

His main thesis revolves around this point: El Alamein, fought on the approaches to Cairo, took place only a couple of weeks before the American-British landing in French North Africa. Those landings guaranteed that Montgomery would win since Rommel would have to retreat to avoid being trapped.

The Homestake Mine in South Dakota, opened in 1879, has produced $400 million worth of gold and is still being mined.

It's a tie between Miss Ohio, Alice Ann McClain of Marion; Miss Maine, Sally Ann Robinson, and Miss Nevada, Nacy Marie Bowen. Each wears a size 7½ glove.

Missing Ex-U.S. Employes Granted Asylum By Soviets

LONDON (AP) — Bernon F. Mitchell and William H. Martin, missing former employes of a U.S. intelligence agency, told a news conference in Moscow today they have been granted political asylum by the Soviet government, Moscow radio reported.

Mitchell and Martin, former intelligence specialists with the National Security Agency, a top secret organization, left Ft. Meade, Md., late in June, and nothing had been heard directly from them until the Moscow broadcast.

Rep. John W. McCormack, D-Mass., said on Aug. 30 that the two men, bachelors and close friends, had taken with them "valuable cryptographic information" —information concerning secret codes.

A State Department spokesman declined immediate comment on the Moscow broadcast.

The agency with which Mitchell and Martin worked was a defense unit engaged around the clock in intercepting radio signals and in communications intelligence.

The two men left in June, ostensibly to visit their families in the western United States. But they did not show up there, and their movements later were traced to Mexico and then to Cuba. The Pentagon said earlier last month that it was presumed they had gone "behind the Iron Curtain."

Bucs Beat Spahn, 9-7, In Opener But Lose Nightcap, 7-1; Protect 6½-Game Margin

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

With the next to last mile post on the pennant path behind them, the Pittsburgh Pirates still have a 6½-game bulge in the National League race. And they did it the hard way, by beating Warren Spahn.

The Bucs, playing .667 ball (10-5) against Milwaukee, ended Spahn's winning streak at six with a seven-run fourth inning for a 9-7 first-game victory in their La-bor Day doubleheader. The Braves bounced back, winning 7-1 in the nightcap, but the split dropped them into a second-place tie with St. Louis.

That also dropped the Pirates' magic number to 17 in pursuit of that final mile post — the game that clinches their first flag in 33 years. Any combination of Buc victories and Milwaukee or St. Louis defeats totaling 17 disposes of the runners-up.

St. Louis moved into a tie with Milwaukee by winning 2-1 in 10 innings at Chicago, before playing a 4-4, 10-inning tie with the Cubs. The second game at Wrigley Field, only major league park without lights, was called because of darkness.

Cincinnati walloped Philadelphia in a night game, San Francisco made it four in a row over Los Angeles, winning 12-8, before the Dodgers won the second game of their twi-night doubleheader 4-3.

In the American League, second-place New York beat Boston twice by 3-2 scores and moved within one game of first-place Baltimore. The Orioles split at Washington, losing 4-0, then winning 3-1. Third-place Chicago, four games behind, lost 8-7 at Kansas City in a single game. Cleveland and Detroit split, the Tigers winning the opener 4-3, and the Indians taking the second game 4-3.

The Pirates, down quick when Ed Mathews' 32nd home run counted three Milwaukee runs in the first inning, took an 8-4 lead when they shelled Spahn in the fourth. Don Hoak's 15th home run, with a man on, and Dick Stuart's 18th, a three-run shot off reliever Joey Jay, put it away. The last three runs were unearned. Fred Green (7-4) was the winner, although pitching only the fourth inning, in relief of starter Bob Friend. Spahn, now 17-8, had won nine of 10 decisions since July 9.

In the nightcap, Chuck Cottier banged three doubles as the Braves came back behind a seven-hit pitching job by Bob Buhl (14-8) and whipped Harvey Haddix (10-9).

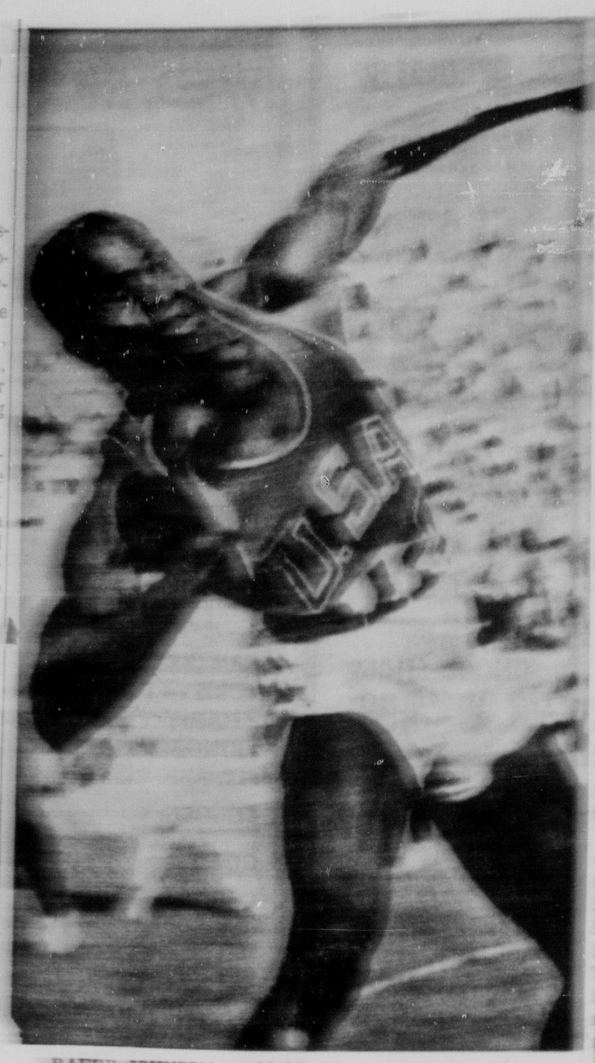
The Cards won the first game on a walk, George Crowe's pinch double, a hit batsman and a force-out grounder by Stan Musial against reliever Don Elston (8-8) in the 10th. Lindy McDaniel won it in relief of Larry Jackson.

Five walks helped the Cubs wipe out a 3-0 Card lead with four runs in the sixth inning of the nightcap against Ray Sadecki. St. Louis then tied it in the eighth on singles by Joe Cunningham and Boyer and Walt Moryn's forceout against Glen Hobbie, third Chicago pitcher.

Cincinnati, eliminated by Pittsburgh's victory, tagged loser Robin Roberts (9-14) and two relievers for 17 hits, including home runs by Frank Robinson (No. 27), Billy Martin and Vada Pinson. Bob Purkey went all the way for his 16th victory although allowing 13 hits—all singles.

The Dodgers had 15 hits, including four home runs, in the opener, but also committed four errors. Stu Miller (5-5) won it in relief for the Giants, who scored five runs in the first inning, three on Willie Kirkland's home run, to beat Stan Williams (12-8).

Rookie Juan Marichal then lost his first in the majors, after winning four, on a wild pitch in the nightcap. Roger Craig (7-1) won his sixth in a row.



RAFER JOHNSON, world decathion champion, gets set to put the shot during the decathion event Monday in Rome. Rafer of Kingsburg, Calif., is running second in the competition behind Formosa's C. K. Yank with four events remaining. Johnson's shot put sailed 51 feet, 10¾ inches. (UPI Telephoto)

Wilma Wins Her Second Gold Medal

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

ROME (AP)—The tract field heroine of the 17th Olympic Games is a shy, frail and almost sickly Tennessee girl who never walked until she was eight years old.

As a baby, Wilma Rudolph was stricken with a form of polio which rendered her limbs helpless. Every week her mother wrapped the whining infant in a blanket and took her by bus 50 miles from Clarksville, Tenn., to Nashville for treatment.

Wilma learned to walk. Then she learned to run.

Today she is the fastest woman runner in the world—acclaimed as another in a line of great Olympic champions which includes the late Babe Didrikson, Fanny Blankers-Koen and Betty Cuthbert.

The tall, leggy Tennessee girl won her second gold medal today, capturing the 200-meter run in 24 seconds flat on a slow track. Previously she had won the 100 in a phenomenal 11 seconds flat. Thursday she anchors three of her Negro teammates from Tennessee A. and I. College in the sprint relay for a probable first.

Until Wilma did it, no American ever won the women's 200. She became the first double gold medalist for the United States in women's track and field since the immortal Didrikson won the 80 hurdles and javelin in 1932.

She is the darling of the Olympic games—surrounded by admiring fans and autograph-seekers, pursued by the press and adored by an Italian populace which has equal fascination for a good athlete and a striking woman.

Wilma has wowed them all, but none perhaps more than her coach, big and gruff Edward Temple of Tennessee A. and I., who also is coach of the Olympic women's team.

"This girl has limitless potential," says Temple. "She is eight (6-1), good legs, natural speed, a dogged determination and, best of all, perfect relaxation.

"There's not a nerve in her body, she's almost lazy. She sits, goes to sleep between semis and finals, runs. She can go to sleep on the rubbing table."

Wilma's 11 seconds flat was the fastest a woman ever covered 100 yards, but a wind technically prevented acceptance of the time as a world record. She has done the 200 in 22.9, a world record, and has 5.8 seconds for 50 meters and 165.7 for 50 yards.

Orioles Split With Nats As Yanks Win Pair

The Review Sports

New York Nips Boston Twice, Trails By One

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Baltimore Orioles, surprise team of the year, win or lose, lost half of their American League lead in the Labor Day firing, and you can blame it on one of three things, or all three together:

1. Illness and injury.
2. A let down by the Baby Birds, or
3. No let up by the Washington Senators.

With third baseman Brooks Robinson ill and left fielder Gene Woodling hurtin', the Birds split their doubleheader at Washington, losing 4-0 before rebounding for a 3-1 victory behind Skinny Brown's three-hit pitching.

Whatever the reason, that first game defeat chopped the Birds' winning streak at seven and whittled their edge to one game over the Yankees, who took a pair of 3-2 decisions from Boston.

The third-place Chicago White Sox, four games behind, lost 8-7 in a single night game at Kansas City. Cleveland and Detroit split, the Tigers winning the opener 4-3 and the Indians winning the second game 4-2.

In the National League, Pittsburgh retained a 6½ game bulge in a split with Milwaukee. The Bucs won the opener 9-7, then lost 7-1. St. Louis gained a second-place tie with Milwaukee by beating Chicago's Cubs 3-2 in 10 innings, and then playing a 4-4 tie called after 10 innings because of darkness at Wrigley Field. Cincinnati whipped Philadelphia 9-2. Los Angeles and San Francisco divided a pair, the Giants winning the opener 12-8 and the Doogers taking the second game 4-3.

Big bats were what the Orioles needed in the opener. While Harmon Killebrew and Reno Bertoia crashed two-run homers for Washington, lefty Chuck Stobbs and Hal Woodeshick blanked the Birds on five hits. Stobbs (10-5) allowed only three hits and struck out seven before giving in to an asthmatic attack in the seventh inning. Young Steve Barber (9-5) was the loser, gaving up Killebrew's 25th homer in the first inning.

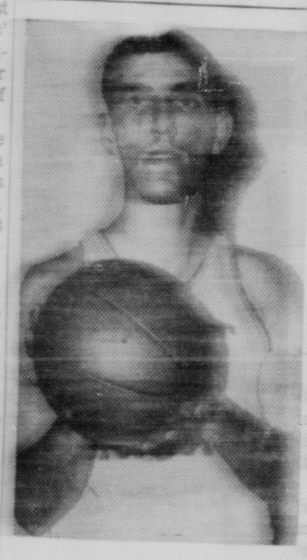
The Birds backed Brown, who struck out 11 and had a two-hit shutout until the ninth inning while winning his 11th, with a clinching pair of runs in the fifth off Pedro Ramos (10-14). Ron Hansen's 20th home run, a walk and Jackie Brandt's single did it.

The Yankees had to come from behind in both games against the Red Sox. They ended their four-game slump and beat Bill Monbouquette (13-10) with three runs in the fifth inning of the first game, scoring on Mickey Mantle's double—New York's first extra-base hit in 43 innings—an infield out and Clete Boyer's single. Jim Coates (11-3) won it, shutting out Boston on one hit for five innings in relief of Bob Turley.

Boston took a 2-1 lead in the nightcap on Carroll Hardy's first home run of the season and an RBI double by Lu Clinton. The Yanks tied it on Tony Kubek's home run in the eighth, off Ike Delock, and won it with two out in the ninth when losing reliever Mike Fornieles (9-5) hit Johnny Blanchard and gave up singles by Gil McDougald and Joe DeMaestri. Blanchard had homered for the first run. Bobby Shantz (5-4) was the winning pitcher in relief.

The A's panged loser Bob Shaw (12-12) and Dick Donovan, first of five White Sox relievers, for seven runs in the first inning on seven hits, four of them doubles. Ray Herbert (10-14) was the winner.

Home runs by Charlie Maxwell and Norm Cash packed away the opener for the Tigers and right-hander Bill Fischer (7-6) although loser Mudcat Grant (9-7) and Don Newcombe allowed only four hits. The Indians got the edge in the nightcap on Woodie Held's two-run homer off Paul Foytack (2-10) in the first inning. Barry Latman (5-5) was the winner. He allowed five hits, one Rocky Colavito's 28th home run.



RON LANEVE, former Newell High School and West Virginia University basketball and baseball star, is helping with the application of heat treatments to Vice President Richard Nixon's knee. LaNeve is a physiotherapist at Walter Reed Hospital. He is a 1955 graduate of West Virginia University.

Pitching — Skinny Brown, Orioles, salvaged split that retained American League lead with three-hit, 11-strike out performance for 3-1 victory over Senators after Nats had taken opener of twin-bill 4-0.

Hitting — Chuck Cottier, Braves, had three doubles, drove in three runs and scored twice in 7-1 victory over Pirates after first place Bucs had won opener 9-7.

PIRATE third baseman Don Hoak scrambles back safely to first base on an attempted pickoff play by Braves pitcher Terry Fox in the fifth inning of Monday's game at Pittsburgh. Milwaukee first baseman Joe Adcock puts the tag on Hoak. The Pirates won the first of a Labor Day doubleheader, 9-7. (UPI Telephoto)

Johnson Running Second, U.S. Has Hope In Discus

ROME (AP) — Hulking Al Oerter of West Babylon, N.Y., led qualifiers in defense of his Olympic discus championship with a record-breaking toss today but world record holder Rafer Johnson slipped back to second after six events of the grueling 10-event decathlon.

Oerter, leading a three-man American advance into the discus finals, hurled the disk 191 feet, 8⅝ inches—smashing by more than six feet his Olympic mark of 184-10⅞ set in winning the event at Melbourne in 1956.

Advancing with the former Kansas star were Hank Babka, former Southern California great from Manhattan Beach, Calif., and Dick Cochran, former Missouri ace from Brookfield, Mo. Babka hit 178-8⅞ and Cochran 176-5¾.

None pressed himself since all that was required was to top the qualifying standard of 170-7¼. Twenty - two of the 36 entries made it into the final, including such challengers to U.S. discus hopes as world champion Edmund Piatkowski of Poland, Jozsef Szwecsenyi of Hungary, and Vladimir Trusenev and Kim Bukhancov of Russia.

Also making it was Adolfo Consolini, who won the Olympic discus gold medal for Italy in 1948.

Ira Davis of Philadelphia was among the qualifiers for the afternoon hop, step and jump finals with 51-3¾ in which Josef Schmidt of Poland established an Olympic mark of 53-11⅛.

But all was overshadowed by the tremendous duel underway in the decathion between America's Johnson and his buddy from UCLA, C. K. Yang of Formosa.

Showing the exhausting strain of Monday's first five events although he is the bigger man physically, Johnson could do not better than 15.3 seconds today in the sixth event — the 110-meter hurdles. When Yang did 14.6, he picked up 923 points for a six-event total of 5,515. Johnson, with 740 points for the hurdles, had an overall total of 5,387.

Russia's Vasiliy Kuznetsov had moved up to third place but with 4,812 he had a long way to go to catch the two leaders.

The four events remaining in the decathlon—the discus, pole vault, javelin and 1,500 meter run—all will be contested before the day is over.

Phil Mulkey of Memphis, the only other U.S. decathlon entry still competing, did poorly in the hurdles and was well back in the overall listings with 4,042 points. Dave Edstrom of Sherwood, Ore., the third U.S. entry, was forced to retire Monday when he pulled a leg muscle in the broad jump.

That was about the only misfortune for the United States Monday.

The Americans picked up five gold medals in track and boxing with a minimum of surprises or upsets and stood right behind the Russians in the unofficial team scoring race.

The Soviets had 385½ points to America's 355½.

But the U.S. trouble there lie in the fact that the U.S.S.R. now goes into gymnastics where they will undoubtedly pile up a bundle of medals, also in wrestling and shooting whereas Uncle Sam has nearly finished big scoring.

Wilma Rudolph, the newly crowned 100 meter Olympic champion, added the 200 meters for a rare double and she did this racing into a headwind that preceded a savage rainstorm. In spite of the wind, she beat out a brilliant field in 24 seconds, remarkable time under the circumstances, if short of her Olympic mark of :23.2.

If the 5-foot-11 Clarksville, Tenn., girl can anchor the U.S. successfully in the women's 400 meter relay—and she thinks she can—it'll be a third gold medal and an all - star performance equivalent to the great Fanny Blankers-Koen of Holland a dozen years ago.

"Skeeter" Rudolph's triumph came just after America's Lee Calhoun, Gary, Ind., Willie May, Chicago, and Hayes Jones, Pontiac, Mich., all outraced Germany's great Martin Lauer to take all three medals in the 110 meter hurdles finals.

The remaining track final of the day, the women's discus, went to Russia's Nina Ponomareva with a record throw of 55.10 meters (183 6-¼ ft). This broke the old Olympic mark of 176 1-¾ set by Olga Fikitova, competing as a Czech in 1956. Married to America's hammer thrower, Hal Connolly, after that, Olga became an American, competed here with the U.S. team, but failed to reach the finals. Top American in the discus was Mrs. Earlene Brown, Los Angeles, in sixth with a throw of 168 3¼.

Don Bragg, Pennsville, N.J., the record holder, and Rom Morris, Burbank, Calif., qualified for the pole vault finals but Dave Clark, Dallas, Tex., a 15-foot jumper, failed to clear 14 1-1-5 and was eliminated.

Scribe Picks Don Bragg For Medal In Pole Vault

The following Olympic track predictions were written by Bert Nelson, publisher of the authoritative Track and Field News.

By BERT NELSON

ROME (AP) — Every Olympic pole vault in history has been won by the United States and Wednesday's competition should not break the string.

Bragg, bothered first by a slight leg injury and now by a bad case of athlete's foot, has not vaulted since his world record 15-9¼ in the U.S. Olympic trials. He has had a weight problem, too.

Best of the Europeans and my pick for third behind Morris and Bragg, is Russia's new European record holder, Janis Krasovskis. At 15-3¾, he is figured for third ahead of Khristo Khristov of Bulgaria, a 15 footer.

I look for an American win in the discus throw, too, and for some great competition. Olympic champ Al Oerter of the United States lays his title on the line against teammate Rink Babka and Poland's Edmund Piatkowski, who share the world mark, and Hungary's dangerous Jozsef Szecsenyi.

Babka easily could upset the dope and figures for second behind Oerter. Szecsenyi is doped for the third spot but it would be no surprise if Dick Cochran, third of American's 190 footers, made it a clean sweep for America. Piatkowski and one of Russia's three good throwers round out my first six.

Third final on the program is the longest event of the meet, the 50,000 meter walk, which looks to be a Russian event.

Blue And White Club Sets Meeting Tonight

The Blue and White Nonpareil Club will meet tonight at 8:15 in the YMCA. Officers and trustees will convene at 7:30, Chuck Cronin, secretary, announced.

But the American vaulters must be at their best. European polemen are better than ever and are in a position to pull an upset if the U.S. contingent weakens.

Don Bragg, the world record holder, is the big favorite, but my prediction is for Ron Morris to cop the gold medal. Morris has been vaulting well all season and seems at the peak of his form. Despite qualifying trouble, he appears fully capable of repeating his lifetime best of 15-5¼ which he vaulted to make the team.

John Schapiro, president of Laurel Race Course, is a member of the Thoroughbred Breeders of England.

Bucs Beat Spahn, 9-7, In Opener But Lose Nightcap, 7-1; Protect 6½-Game Margin

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

With the next to last mile post on the pennant path behind them, the Pittsburgh Pirates still have a 6½-game bulge in the National League race. And they did it the hard way, by beating Warren Spahn.

The Bucs, playing .667 ball (10-5) against Milwaukee, ended Spahn's winning streak at six with a seven-run fourth inning for a 9-7 first-game victory in their Labor Day doubleheader. The Braves bounced back, winning 7-1, in the nightcap, but the split dropped them into a second-place tie with St. Louis.

That also dropped the Pirates' magic number to 17 in pursuit of that final mile post — the game that clinches their first flag in 33 years. Any combination of Buc victories and Milwaukee or St. Louis defeats totaling 17 disposes of the runners-up.

St. Louis moved into a tie with Milwaukee by winning 2-1 in 10 innings at Chicago, before playing a 4-4, 10-inning tie with the Cubs. The second game at Wrigley Field, only major league park without lights, was called because of darkness.

Cincinnati walloped Philadelphia in a night game. San Francisco made it four in a row over Los Angeles, winning 12-8, before the Dodgers won the second game of their twi-night doubleheader 4-3.

In the American League, second-place New York beat Boston twice by 3-2 scores and moved within one game of first-place Baltimore. The Orioles split at Washington, losing 4-0, then winning 3-1. Third-place Chicago, four games behind, lost 8-7 at Kansas City in a single game. Cleveland and Detroit split, the Tigers winning the opener 4-3, and the Indians taking the second game 4-3.

The Pirates, down quick when Ed Mathews' 32nd home run counted three Milwaukee runs in the first inning, took an 8-4 lead when they shelled Spahn in the fourth. Don Hoak's 15th home run, with a man on, and Dick Stuart's 18th, a three-run shot off reliever Joey Jay, put it away. The last three runs were unearned. Fred Green (7-4) was the winner, although pitching only the fourth inning, in relief of starter Bob Friend. Spahn, now 17-8, had won nine of 10 decisions since July 9.

In the nightcap, Chuck Cottier banged three doubles as the Braves came back behind a seven-hit pitching job by Bob Buhl (14-6) and whipped Harvey Haddix (10-9).

The Cards won the first game on a walk, George Crowe's pinch double, a hit batsman and a force-out grounder by Stan Musial against reliever Don Elston (8-8) in the 10th. Lindy McDaniel won it in relief of Larry Jackson.

Five walks helped the Cubs wipe out a 3-0 Card lead with four runs in the sixth inning of the nightcap against Ray Sadecki. St. Louis then tied it in the eighth on singles by Joe Cunningham and Boyer and Walt Moryn's forceout against Glen Hobbie, third Chicago pitcher.

Cincinnati, eliminated by Pittsburgh's victory, tagged loser Robin Roberts (9-14) and two relievers for 17 hits, including home runs by Frank Robinson (No. 27), Billy Martin and Vada Pinson. Bob Purkey went all the way for his 16th victory although allowing 13 hits—all singles.

The Dodgers had 15 hits, including four home runs, in the opener, but also committed four errors. Stu Miller (5-5) won it in relief for the Giants, who scored five runs in the first inning, three on Willie Kirkland's home run, to beat Stan Williams (12-8).

Rookie Juan Marichal then lost his first in the majors, after winning four, on a wild pitch in the nightcap. Roger Craig (7-1) won his sixth in a row.

RAFER JOHNSON, world decathion champion, gets set to put the shot during the decathion event Monday in Rome. Rafer of Kingsburg, Calif., is running second in the competition behind Formosa's C. K. Yank with four events remaining. Johnson's shot put sailed 51 feet, 10¾ inches. (UPI Telephoto)

Wilma Wins Her Second Gold Medal

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

ROME (AP)—The tract and field heroine of the 17th Olympic Games is a shy, frail and once sickly Tennessee girl who never walked until she was eight years old.

As a baby, Wilma Rudolph was stricken with a form of polio which rendered her immobile. Every week her mother wrapped the whining mite in a blanket and took her by bus 50 miles from Clarksville, Tenn., to Nashville for treatment.

Wilma learned to walk. Then she learned to run.

Today she is the fastest woman runner in the world—acclaimed as another in a line of great Olympic champions which includes the late Babe Didrikson, Fanny Blankers-Koen and Betty Cuthbert.

The tall, leggy Tennessee girl won her second gold medal today, capturing the 200-meter run in 24 seconds flat on a sun-baked track. Previously she had won the 100 in a phenomenal 11 seconds flat. Thursday she anchors three of her Negro teammates from Tennessee A. and I. College in the 400-meter sprint relay for a probable third gold medal.

Until Wilma did it, no American woman ever won the women's 200. She became the first double gold medalist for the United States in women's track and field since the immortal Didrikson won the javelin and 200.

She is the darling of the Olympic games—surrounded by admiring fans and autograph-seekers, pursued by the press and adored by an Italian populace which has equal fascination for a good athlete and a striking woman.

Wilma has wowed them all, but none perhaps more than her coach, big and gruff Edward Temple of Tennessee A. and I. who also is coach of the Olympic women's team.

"This girl has limitless potential," says Temple. "She has height (6-1), good legs, natural speed, a dogged determination and, best of all, perfect relaxation.

"There's not a nerve in her body, she's almost lazy. She often goes to sleep between semi-final runs. She can go to sleep on the rubbing table."

Wilma's 11 seconds flat was the fastest a woman ever covered 100 yards, but a wind technically prevented acceptance of the time as a world record. She has done the 200 in 22.9, a world record, and has 5.8 seconds for 50 meters and 7.7 for 50 yards.

Orioles Split With Nats As Yanks Win Pair

The Review Sports

New York Nips Boston Twice, Trails By One

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Baltimore Orioles, surprise team of the year, win or lose, lost half of their American League lead in the Labor Day firing, and you can blame it on one of three things, or all three together:

1. Illness and injury,
2. A let down by the Baby Birds, or
3. No let up by the Washington Senators.

With third baseman Brooks Robinson ill and left fielder Gene Woodling hurtin', the Birds split their doubleheader at Washington, losing 4-0 before rebounding for a 3-1 victory behind Skinny Brown's three-hit pitching.

Whatever the reason, that first game defeat chopped the Birds' winning streak at seven and whittled their edge to one game over the Yankees, who took a pair of 3-2 decisions from Boston.

The third-place Chicago White Sox, four games behind, lost 8-7 in a single night game at Kansas City. Cleveland and Detroit split, the Tigers winning the opener 4-3 and the Indians winning the second game 4-2.

In the National League, Pittsburgh retained a 6½ game bulge in a split with Milwaukee. The Bucs won the opener 9-7, then lost 7-1. St. Louis gained a second-place tie with Milwaukee by beating Chicago's Cubs 3-2 in 10 innings, and then playing a 4-4 tie called after 10 innings because of darkness at Wrigley Field. Cincinnati whipped Philadelphia 9-2. Los Angeles and San Francisco divided a pair, the Giants winning the opener 12-8 and the Dodgers taking the second game 4-3.

Big bats were what the Orioles needed in the opener. While Harmon Killebrew and Reno Bertoia crashed two-run homers for Washington, lefty Chuck Stobbs and Hal Woodeshick blanked the Birds on five hits. Stobbs (10-5) allowed only three hits and struck out seven before giving in to an asthmatic attack in the seventh inning. Young Steve Barber (9-5) was the loser, gaving up Killebrew's 25th homer in the first inning.

The Birds backed Brown, who struck out 11 and had a two-hit shutout until the ninth inning while winning his 11th, with a clinching pair of runs in the fifth off Pedro Ramos (10-14). Ron Hansen's 20th home run, a walk and Jackie Brandt's single did it.

The Yankees had to come from behind in both games against the Red Sox. They ended their four-game slump and beat Bill Monbouquette (13-10) with three runs in the fifth inning of the first game, scoring on Mickey Mantle's double—New York's first extra-base hit in 43 innings—an infield out and Clete Boyer's single. Jim Coates (11-3) won it, shutting out Boston on one hit for five innings in relief of Bob Turley.

Boston took a 2-1 lead in the nightcap on Carroll Hardy's first home run of the season and an RBI double by Lu Clinton. The Yanks tied it on Tony Kubek's home run in the eighth, off Ike Delock, and won it with two out in the ninth when losing reliever Mike Fornieles (9-5) hit Johnny Blanchard and gave up singles by Gil McDougald and Joe DeMaestri. Blanchard had homered for the first run. Bobby Shantz (5-4) was the winning pitcher in relief.

The A's banged loser Bob Shaw (12-12) and Dick Donovan, first of five White Sox relievers, for seven runs in the first inning on seven hits, four of them doubles. Ray Herbert (10-14) was the winner.

Home runs by Charlie Maxwell and Norm Cash packed away the opener for the Tigers and right-hander Bill Fischer (7-6), although loser Mudcat Grant (9-7) and Don Newcombe allowed only four hits. The Indians got the edge in the nightcap on Woodie Held's two-run homer off Paul Foytack (2-10) in the first inning. Barry Latman (5-5) was the winner. He allowed five hits, one Rocky Colavito's 28th home run.

RON LANEVE, former Newell High School and West Virginia University basketball and baseball star, is helping with the application of heat treatments to Vice President Richard Nixon's knee. LaNeve is a physiotherapist at Walter Reed Hospital. He is a 1955 graduate of West Virginia University.

Scribe Picks Don Bragg For Medal In Pole Vault

The following Olympic track predictions were written by Bert Nelson, publisher of the authoritative Track and Field News.

By BERT NELSON

ROME (AP) — Every Olympic pole vault in history has been won by the United States and Wednesday's competition should not break the string.

Bragg, bothered first by a slight leg injury and now by a bad case of athlete's foot, has not vaulted since his world record 15-9¾ in the U.S. Olympic trials. He has had a weight problem, too.

Best of the Europeans, and my pick for third behind Morris and Bragg, is Russia's new European record holder, Janis Krasovskis. At 15-3¾, he is figured for third ahead of Khristo Khristov of Bulgaria, a 15 footer.

I look for an American win in the discus throw, too, and for some great competition. Olympic champ Al Oerter of the United States lays his title on the line against teammate Rink Babka and Poland's Edmund Piatkowski, who share the world mark, and Hungary's dangerous Jozsef Szecsenyi.

Babka easily could upset the dope and figures for second behind Oerter. Szecsenyi is doped for the third spot but it would be no surprise if Dick Cochran, third of American's 190 footers, made it a clean sweep for America. Piatkowski and one of Russia's three good throwers round out my first six.

Third final on the program is the longest event of the meet, the 50,000 meter walk, which looks to be a Russian event.

But the American vaulters must be at their best. European polemen are better than ever and are in a position to pull an upset if the U.S. contingent weakens.

Don Bragg, the world record holder, is the big favorite, but my prediction is for Ron Morris to cop the gold medal. Morris has been vaulting well all season and seems at the peak of his form. Despite qualifying trouble, he appears fully capable of repeating his lifetime best of 15-5¼ which he vaulted to make the team.

Decathlon Champ Trailing

Johnson Running Second; U.S. Has Hope In Discus

ROME (AP) — Hulking Al Oerter of West Babylon, N.Y., led qualifiers in defense of his Olympic discus championship with a record-breaking toss today but world record holder Rafer Johnson slipped back to second after six events of the grueling 10-event decathlon.

Oerter, leading a three-man American advance into the discus finals, hurled the disk 191 feet, 8⅝ inches—smashing by more than six feet his Olympic mark of 184-10⅞ set in winning the event at Melbourne in 1956.

Advancing with the former Kansas star were Rink Babka, former Southern California great from Manhattan Beach, Calif., and Dick Cochran, former Missouri ace from Brookfield, Mo. Babka hit 178-8⅞ and Cochran 176-5⅜.

None pressed himself since all that was required was to top the qualifying standard of 170-7¾. Twenty - two of the 36 entries made it into the final, including such challengers to U.S. discus hopes as world champion Edmund Piatkowski of Poland, Jozsef Szecsenyi of Hungary, and Vladimir Trusenev and Kim Bukhancov of Russia.

Also making it was Adolfo Consolini, who won the Olympic discus gold medal for Italy in 1948.

Ira Davis of Philadelphia was among the qualifiers for the afternoon hop, step and jump finals with 51-3¾ in which Josef Schmidt of Poland established an Olympic mark of 53-11½.

But all was overshadowed by the tremendous duel underway in the decathlon between America's Johnson and his buddy from UCLA, C. K. Yang of Formosa.

Showing the exhausting strain of Monday's first five events although he is the bigger man physically, Johnson could do not better than 15.3 seconds today in the sixth event — the 110-meter hurdles. When Yang did 14.6, he picked up 923 points for a six-event total of 5,515. Johnson, with 740 points for the hurdles, had an overall total of 5,387.

Russia's Vasiliy Kuznetsov had moved up to third place but with 4,812 he had a long way to go to catch the two leaders.

The four events remaining in the decathlon—the discus, pole vault, javelin and 1,500 meter run—all will be contested before the day is over.

Phil Mulkey of Memphis, the only other U.S. decathlon entry still competing, did poorly in the hurdles and was well back in the overall listings with 4,042 points. Dave Edstrom of Sherwood, Ore., the third U.S. entry, was forced to retire Monday when he pulled a leg muscle in the broad jump.

That was about the only misfortune for the United States Monday.

The Americans picked up five gold medals in track and boxing with a minimum of surprises or upsets and stood right behind the Russians in the unofficial team scoring race.

The Soviets had 385½ points to America's 355½.

But the U.S. trouble there lie in the fact that the U.S.S.R. now goes into gymnastics where they will undoubtedly pile up a bundle of medals, also in wrestling and shooting whereas Uncle Sam has nearly finished big scoring.

Wilma Rudolph, the newly crowned 100 meter Olympic champion, added the 200 meters for a rare double and she did this racing into a headwind that preceded a savage rainstorm. In spite of the wind, she beat out a brilliant field in 24 seconds, remarkable time under the circumstances, if short of her Olympic mark of :23.2.

If the 5-foot-11 Clarksville, Tenn., girl can anchor the U.S. successfully in the women's 400 meter relay—and she thinks she can—it'll be a third gold medal and an all - star performance equivalent to the great Fanny Blankers-Koen of Holland a dozen years ago.

"Skeeter" Rudolph's triumph came just after America's Lee Calhoun, Gary, Ind., Willie May, Chicago, and Hayes Jones, Pontiac, Mich., all outraced Germany's great Martin Lauer to take all three medals in the 110 meter hurdles finals.

The remaining track final of the day, the women's discus, went to Russia's Nina Ponomareva with a record throw of 55.10 meters (183 6-¼ ft). This broke the old Olympic mark of 176 1-¾ set by Olga Fikitova, competing as a Czech in 1956. Married to America's hammer thrower, Hal Connolly, after that, Olga became an American, competed here with the U.S. team, but failed to reach the finals. Top American in the discus was Mrs. Earlene Brown, Los Angeles, in sixth with a throw of 168 3½.

Don Bragg, Pennsville, N.J., the record holder, and Ron Morris, Burbank, Calif., qualified for the pole vault finals but Dave Clark, Dallas, Tex., a 15-foot jumper, failed to clear 14 1-1-5 and was eliminated.

12 Lettermen Return

Football Picture Bright At Columbiana For 1960

COLUMBIANA — Head coach George Fisher is blessed with 12 lettermen as Columbiana looks to its 1960 campaign.

The Clippers will receive an extra week of practice since their season doesn't open until Sept. 16 at McDonald.

Fisher isn't known as a optimist, but he only lost four boys from last season and said "the return of 12 lettermen and the increase in weight give us hope of improving on last year's 3-7 record."

The line should average close to 170 pounds, with the backs hitting about 162, Fisher pointed out.

Three of the five backfield men are two - year veterans and should reach their peak this season.

GARY SPRATT has won two letters at halfback. He is a 150-pound senior. Paul Murphy, regular quarterback for the Clippers last season, and Gary Perkins, a halfback, also lettered their sophomore and juniors seasons. Murphy is a 165-pounder, while Perkins hits the scales at 175.

Another holdover in the backfield is another Murphy boy Dale, who is slated for a fullback spot. He weighed in at 180 pounds. Also battling for a job at halfback is 130-pounder Rich Kyser, another letter winner.

A wealth of veteran material is back on the forward wall, led by standout center Don Culp. The 165-pound senior earned his first varsity letter as a sophomore.

Two lettermen ends also are back in Dave Garrod, 135, and Rich Harrold, 165. Garrod is only a junior while Harrold is a senior.

Leading the guards are Gary Thompson at 140, Bob Budd, a 150-pounder and a sophomore Bob Johnson, a 170-pounder who won a letter his freshman year.

Other prospects who have caught Fisher's eye are a pair of 210-pound tackles in Dave Scott, a senior, and Dave Donban, a junior.

—:—

ED OLENIK (170) is battling for a guard spot, while Ken Mahler, a 200-pound sophomore, may see some action at center.

Several backs who have been showing improvement in early season drills include John Bailey and Randy Miller both vieing for halfback jobs and Dave Bailey, a junior, trying out for the quarterback spot.

Lost from last year was Tom Logan, who will be missed for the first time in four seasons. Logan won four football letters at Columbiana. He was a tackle.

Halfback Larry Barnhouse, center Ray Detwiler and end Bob Bender are the other losses.

After the first game with McDonald, Columbiana opens the Tri-County League race at home against Poland on Sept. 23.

Returning to assist Fisher this year are Rich Berryman, head coach at Columbiana, and Ted Ossoff, who has been at Columbiana for the last two seasons.

The 1960 schedule follows:

Sept.	16	McDonald, away
Sept.	23	Poland, home
Sept.	30	Minerva, home
Oct.	8	Canfield, away
Oct.	14	Leetonia, home
Oct.	21	Sebring, away
Oct.	29	Springfield, home
Nov.	4	Lisbon, away
Nov.	11	East Palestine, home
Nov.	18	Louisville, home

Tribe Can Even Score With Detroit In Finale

DETROIT (AP)—A victory for the Cleveland Indians tonight in their final 1960 game in Detroit would even the Indians' won-lost record and enable their manager, Jimmy Dykes, to catch up with their former manager, Joe Gordon.

Since Gordon was swapped to the Tigers Aug. 3, his club has a 16-19 record. After Monday's doubleheader split here, Cleveland losing the opener 4-3 then copping the nightcap 4-2, the Dykes-led Indians had a 15-20 mark, compared with 16-19 for the Gordon-led Tigers.

So far as the over-all interclub rivalry is concerned, Detroit holds a lopsided edge, with 14 victories in 20 games. One game in Cleveland Sept. 20 remains between the two after tonight.

The second-game triumph Monday was the first time Cleveland had beaten Detroit in eight games. It also was the first time since July 10 that the Indians avoided being dumped in both ends of a twin bill.

Pitcher Barry Latman and shortstop Woodie Held deserve the Lion's share of credit for Cleveland's nightcap triumph.

Latman, winning his fourth straight to make his record 5-5, struck out nine and allowed only five singles and two walks. Rocky Colavito's 28th homer after Steve Bilko's single in the second inning spoiled Latman's shutout.

Held, who has hit four home runs in four games, connected for his 19th roundtripper in the first inning off Paul Foytack, with Harvey Kuenn on base by a single. Held added two singles in subsequent at-bats and scored Cleveland's final run in the third inning.

Jim Grant pitched good ball for the Indians in the opener, fanning 10 in seven innings and allowing only four hits. But two of the hits were home runs—by Charles Maxwell and Norm Cash. Maxwell's, his 22nd, followed one of Grant's five walks and gave the Tigers a 3-1 third-inning lead. Cash's 16th homer provided the winning margin in the seventh.

Bubba Phillips and Tito Francona hit bases-bare homers for Cleveland, and doubles by Grant and Francona accounted for the other Indian run. All of these hits came off Bill Fischer, whose 7-6 record includes three straight over Cleveland.

Bobby Locke (2-4) pitches tonight for the Indians, and Pete Burnside (7-7) is the Tigers' probable starter.

Pitchers Major Difference In IL Pennant Winners

By The Associated Press

The difference between this year's pennant - winning Toronto Maple Leafs and last year's International League cellar dwellers is the pitching corps and its miserly quality of not allowing any runs.

Bob Chakales shut out the Rochester Red Wings 2-0 in the second game of a doubleheader Monday, the 31st Leaf shutout in 97 victories. Al Cicotte has eight of them, including Saturday night's 11-inning no-hitter.

Chakales' two-hit shutout came after Rochester won the opener 4-3. Jersey City closed to within a half game of fourth place Buffalo—and the final IL playoff spot—with a 6-4 decision over Miami while the Bisons wers dividing with Montreal, winning 6-2 then dropping 7-3. Richmond and Columbus were rained out.

18 Lettermen Return

Northwestern, Thornton Will Be Feared In Big 10

By Charles Chamberlain
Associated Press Sports Writer

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — With triple threat quarterback Dick Thornon returning to the firing line, Northwestern's Wildcats should be one of the most feared teams in Big Ten football this fall.

Thornton, who led the conference in total offense as a 1958 sophomore, broke an ankle returning the opening kickoff against Iowa in Northwestern's first 1959 league game and was lost for the season.

Also back in action is hard-driving halfback Al Kimbrough, shelved last fall while undergoing a series of thigh operations.

Paired with these two in an explosive starting backfield will be fullback Mike Stock and elusive halfback Dutch Purdin, both seniors.

Stock, from Barberton, Ohio, was the Big Ten scoring leader in 1959 with 33 points and topped the team in time played with 495 minutes.

Purdin, from Greenfield, Ohio, shifted from right to left half to replace the graduated Ron Burton, averaged 5.2 yards a carry last year and caught 12 long-gainer passes for 278 yards.

Backfield depth will be provided by quarterbacks Larry Wood, senior defensive specialist, and junior Bobby Eickhoff of Lima, Ohio; junior halfbacks Al Faunce and Frank Johnson, and sophomores Bob Snider and Paul Flatley; and fullbacks Jim Knowles, senior letterman, and sophomore John Dickey.

Snider is a 170-pounder from Dayton, Ohio; Flatley, 188, is from Richmond, Ind., and Dickey, 190, from Valley Station, Ky.

In all, Coach Ara Parseghian has 18 lettermen, including four regulars from the 1959 team that compiled a 6-3 record.

"We will not have a big team," he said. "We don't figure to overpower anybody. But we will have mobility. Our manpower being what it is, we simply can't afford the crippling injuries that hit us a year ago."

Parseghian's main problem is replacing his entire interior line. Key position is center, vacated by Jim Andreotti. His understudy, Larry Onesti, will be used on defense and Ike Smith, a 270-pound converted tackle, on offense.

At tackles will be a pair of junior lettermen, Fate Echols, 248 pounds, and Boyd Melvin, 220. Supporting them will be several promising sophomores, including Jack Cvercko of Campbell, Ohio, brother of Northwestern's Lineman of 1958, Andy Cvercko.

Two more reserves will be starters at guard—Russ Asala and Wayne Mnichowicz, junior Chuck Hansen and a standout sophomore, Burt Petkus.

Strong points of the line are the ends, fortified by 1959 regulars, Elbert Kimbrough and Irv Cross, Paul Yanke—all seniors. The trio caught 31 passes last year, 16 by Kimbrough.

Don Burbick closed even to grab the runnerup spot.

In the second division, Joseph W. Cooper was 1-up to take honors.

In Sunday's best ball medal play, Dr. R. J. Kinsey and Dr. J. J. Laneve tied Dick Crable and Ricky Crable at 64 each.

R. J. Schiff and Everson Hall were deadlocked at 65 with F. J. Cloran and C. F. Metz Jr.

The second division wound up in a tie between teams of George Steele and Dr. H. F. Banfield and C. F. Metz and Dick Heddleston with 72 each.

James E. Laughlin won Saturday's selective nine-hole match while Norman Ankrim and J. R. Porter were second with 30 each.

A four-way tie featured the second division. Okey Ludwig, Dick Heddleston, Dr. A. A. Turner and L. W. Smith Jr. ended with 31 each.

Browns Open Workouts For Game With Bears

CLEVELAND (AP) — With a new offensive tackle on the squad and their third exhibition victory under their belts, the Cleveland Browns begin home-base workouts today in preparation for Saturday night's game in Akron against the Chicago Bears.

By tonight the Browns will have to cut two players from their roster, reducing to 43.

The newcomer is Gene Selawski, one of a half dozen Brownies who did some holiday work at League Park Monday.

Coach Paul Brown was impressed by the former Purdue Lineman whom the club acquired last week from Los Angeles.

Selawski was with the club for Saturday night's 26-24 victory over San Francisco at Portland, Ore., but sat it out, since he had not had enough time to get familiar with Cleveland plays.

"He reminds me some of Groza when Lou first came to the Browns," Coach Brown said of Selawski.

"I knew something about this boy before we made the move. He played in one of the Senior Bowl games when I was coaching. I liked what I saw then."

A crowd of about 25,000 is expected for the exhibition game at the Rubber Bowl in Akron where the Browns have appeared each summer since 1946, except in 1954.

The Browns will be after their fourth pre-season contest victory against one loss, to Los Angeles. The Bears have beaten New York and Washington and lost to Green Bay.

In 10 exhibiton games between the Bears and Browns, Cleveland has won seven, including the first five and last year's close one, by 33-31. These two clubs meet here Dec. 11 in the Browns' final home game of the regular National Football League schedule.

It Was Labor Day, Labor For OSU Squad

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—It was Labor Day, all right, for Ohio State University's football squad. And labor they did, with temperatures in the high 80s.

Monday's four-hour morning and afternoon workouts were marred by one minor mishap. First-string quarterback Tom Matte limped off the field after he was hit hard while punting and hurt his left ankle.

Coach Woody Hayes indicated the injury was not serious, but added: "It will probably slow him down for awhile."

Hayes said a half-hour pass offense drill featuring Matte and junior quarterback Jack Wallace was "as good as any work we've had so far."

2 Mechanics, Official Killed In Race Mishap

DARLINGTON, S. C. (AP)—Two stock racing cars locked bumpers at high speed during the Southern 500-mile race here Monday and careened into a pit wall. Two mechanics and a race official died, and four other people were injured.

Killed were Paul McDuffie and Charles Sweatlund, both of Atlanta, and Joe Taylor of Charlotte, N. C., an inspector of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing.

The drivers, Roy Tyner of Red Springs, N. C., and Bobby Johns, Miami, Fla., escaped serious injury.

12 Lettermen Return

Football Picture Bright At Columbiana For 1960

COLUMBIANA — Head coach George Fisher is blessed with 12 lettermen as Columbiana looks to its 1960 campaign.

The Clippers will receive an extra week of practice since their season doesn't open until Sept. 16 at McDonald.

Fisher isn't known as a optimist, but he only lost four boys from last season and said "the return of 12 lettermen and the increase in weight give us hope of improving on last year's 3-7 record."

The line should average close to 170 pounds, with the backs hitting about 162, Fisher pointed out.

Three of the five backfield men are two - year veterans and should reach their peak this season.

GARY SPRATT has won two letters at halfback. He is a 150-pound senior. Paul Murphy, regular quarterback for the Clippers last season, and Gary Perkins, a halfback, also lettered their sophomore and juniors seasons. Murphy is a 165-pounder, while Perkins hits the scales at 175.

Another holdover in the backfield is another Murphy boy Dale, who is slated for a fullback spot. He weighed in at 180 pounds. Also battling for a job at halfback is 130-pounder Rich Kyser, another letter winner.

A wealth of veteran material is back on the forward wall, led by standout center Don Culp. The 165-pound senior earned his first varsity letter as a sophomore.

Two lettermen ends also are back in Dave Garrod, 135, and Rich Harrold, 165. Garrod is only a junior while Harrold is a senior.

Fisher will have one veteran at tackle in senior Don Williamson at 170 pounds.

Leading the guards are Gary Thompson at 140, Bob Budd, a 150-pounder and a sophomore Bob Johnson, a 170-pounder who won a letter his freshman year.

Other prospects who have caught Fisher's eye are a pair of 210-pound tackles in Dave Scott, a senior, and Dave Donban, a junior.

—:—

ED OLENIK (170) is battling for a guard spot, while Ken Mahler, a 200-pound sophomore, may see some action at center.

Several backs who have been showing improvement in early season drills include John Bailey and Randy Miller both vieing for halfback jobs and Dave Bailey, a junior, trying out for the quarterback spot.

Lost from last year was Tom Logan, who will be missed for the first time in four seasons. Logan won four football letters at Columbiana. He was a tackle.

Halfback Larry Barnhouse, center Ray Detwiler and end Bob Bender are the other losses.

After the first game with McDonald, Columbiana opens the Tri-County League race at home against Poland on Sept. 23.

Returning to assist Fisher this year are Rich Berryman, head coach at Columbiana, and Ted Ossoff, who has been at Columbiana for the last two seasons.

The 1960 schedule follows:

Sept. 16	McDonald, away
Sept. 23	Poland, home
Sept. 30	Minerva, home
Oct. 8	Canfield, away
Oct. 14	Leetonia, home
Oct. 21	Sebring, away
Oct. 29	Springfield, home
Nov. 4	Lisbon, away
Nov. 11	East Palestine, home
Nov. 18	Louisville, home

Tribe Can Even Score With Detroit In Finale

DETROIT (AP)—A victory for the Cleveland Indians tonight in their final 1960 game in Detroit would even the Indians' won-lost record and enable their manager, Jimmy Dykes, to catch up with their former manager, Joe Gordon.

Since Gordon was swapped to the Tigers Aug. 3, his club has a 16-19 record. After Monday's doubleheader split here, Cleveland losing the opener 4-3 then copping the nightcap 4-2, the Dykes-led Indians had a 15-20 mark, compared with 16-19 for the Gordon-led Tigers.

So far as the over-all interclub rivalry is concerned, Detroit holds a lopsided edge, with 14 victories in 20 games. One game in Cleveland Sept. 20 remains between the two after tonight.

The second-game triumph Monday was the first time Cleveland had beaten Detroit in eight games. It also was the first time since July 10 that the Indians avoided being dumped in both ends of a twin bill.

Pitcher Barry Latman and shortstop Woodie Held deserve the Lion's share of credit for Cleveland's nightcap triumph.

Latman, winning his fourth straight to make his record 5-5, struck out nine and allowed only five singles and two walks. Rocky Colavito's 28th homer after Steve Bilko's single in the second inning spoiled Latman's shutout.

Held, who has hit four home runs in four games, connected for his 19th roundtripper in the first inning off Paul Foytack, with Harvey Kuenn on base by a single. Held added two singles in subsequent at-bats and scored Cleveland's final run in the third inning.

Jim Grant pitched good ball for the Indians in the opener, fanning 10 in seven innings and allowing only four hits. But two of the hits were home runs—by Charles Maxwell and Norm Cash. Maxwell's, his 22nd, followed one of Grant's five walks and gave the Tigers a 3-1 third-inning lead. Cash's 16th homer provided the winning margin in the seventh.

Bubba Phillips and Tito Francona hit bases-bare homers for Cleveland, and doubles by Grant and Francona accounted for the other Indian run. All of these hits came off Bill Fischer, whose 7-6 record includes three straight over Cleveland.

Bobby Locke (2-4) pitches tonight for the Indians, and Pete Burnside (7-7) is the Tigers' probable starter.

Pitchers Major Difference In IL Pennant Winners

By The Associated Press

The difference between this year's pennant - winning Toronto Maple Leafs and last year's International League cellar dwellers is the pitching corps and its miserly quality of not allowing any runs.

Bob Chakales shut out the Rochester Red Wings 2-0 in the second game of a doubleheader Monday, the 31st Leaf shutout in 97 victories. Al Cicotte has eight of them, including Saturday night's 11-inning no-hitter.

Chakales' two-hit shutout came after Rochester won the opener 4-3. Jersey City closed to within a half game of fourth place Buffalo—and the final IL playoff spot—with a 6-4 decision over Miami while the Bisons wers dividing with Montreal, winning 6-2 then dropping 7-3. Richmond and Columbus were rained out.

It Was Labor Day, Labor For OSU Squad

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—It was Labor Day, all right, for Ohio State University's football squad. And labor they did, with temperatures in the high 80s.

Monday's four-hour morning and afternoon workouts were marred by one minor mishap. First-string quarterback Tom Matte limped off the field after he was hit hard while punting and hurt his left ankle.

Coach Woody Hayes indicated the injury was not serious, but added: "It will probably slow him down for awhile."

Hayes said a half-hour pass offense drill featuring Matte and junior quarterback Jack Wallace was "as good as any work we've had so far."

2 Mechanics, Official Killed In Race Mishap

DARLINGTON, S. C. (AP)—Two stock racing cars locked bumpers at high speed during the Southern 500-mile race here Monday and careened into a pit wall. Two mechanics and a race official died, and four other people were injured.

The drivers, Roy Tyner of Red Springs, N. C., and Bobby Johns, Miami, Fla., escaped serious injury.

But before he got there, he fell on a wagon while playing and cut his leg (right). That called for four more stitches.

Hurricane Kills 70, Still Threat To U.S.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Donna, leaving 70 dead in its wake, whirled west northwest in the Atlantic today, still a threat to the U.S. mainland.

Donna slowed her forward movement to 10 miles per hour but still packed winds up to 125 miles per hour over a small area near the center.

Early today the season's fourth tropical storm was about 200 miles east southeast of Turks Island in the Bahamas and 800 miles east-southeast of Miami, the nearest mainland point.

The hurricane's path indicated it may pass to the east of the Bahamas.

9,000 Attend Tomlinson Run State Park During Weekend

Attendance at Tomlinson Run State Park for the weekend totaled 9,000, including 1,000 swimmers, according to Supervisor N. T. Holbrook.

Since Jan. 1, park attendance totals 208,460. Of that number, 44,560 were swimmers and 3,600 used boating facilities. Visitors during the summer were from 26 states, Holbrook said.

A total of 1,450 used the park's group camps this summer. Attendance picked up lately but is running a little behind that of last season because of the cool, wet months of June and July.

About 3,000 attended Lake Marwin over the weekend. Some 1,800 enjoyed the facilities Sunday. The crowd was about 1,200 Monday. Yesterday marked the closing of the swimming and fishing season. Other activities will be continued.

A total of 639 admissions were recorded at the Thompson Park pool over the holiday weekend.

William Bell, superintendent, reported 282 paid admissions on Sunday and 357 on Monday as the pool closed for the season.

Park facilities, including picnic pavilions, tennis, basketball and shuffleboard courts will remain open until cold weather arrives.

Bell said many picnics have been scheduled for evenings and on Sundays.

Traffic on Route 30 and other roads in Columbiana County was heavy yesterday, according to the State Highway Patrol at Lisbon, but no serious mishaps were reported. Northbound traffic dominated the flow late Monday, officers said.

Although traffic in Hancock County was the heaviest of the year for the Labor Day weekend, county sheriff's deputies said there wasn't even a "scratched fender" reported.

Traffic was especially heavy in Chester.

There's Another Side To The Juvenile Story

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — A Des Moines man who has been hearing about juvenile delinquency went to his office to do some night work.

When he returned to his car several hours later he found a note on the front seat.

It said: "You left the lights on, so if your battery is dead, that's why. I turned the lights off at 9:40. You're welcome. Roosevelt High School student."

P. S. — The car's engine started all right.

One For The Birds

ROANOKE RAPIDS, N. C. (AP) — Townspeople complained when their electricity went off. They found that birds had done it again. They had shorted out a conductor, leaving two paper mills, four textile plants, two radio stations and 10,200 customers powerless for the second time in a month.

Here's A Happy Home With Happy Shooting

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Here's one happy home in the topsy-turvy entertainment world.

For her second wedding anniversary, singer Gisele MacKenzie received a .22-caliber revolver from her business manager-husband Robert Shuttleworth.

The reason? Shuttleworth recently became fascinated with the art of target shooting.

"Whatever Bob takes up," said Gisele, "I take up also. Otherwise, someone else is liable to take it up with him."

From Day To Night

FORT MORGAN, Colo. (AP) — Fort Morgan's city dog catcher has shifted his working hours from day to night. Police Chief Dan Dorn says he received very few complaints of dogs running loose during the day, but hounds galore were running all over the city at night.

Salem Awaits Charter Ballot

An ordinance calling for a vote at Salem at the Nov. 8 general election on a proposal to adopt a charter form of government was certified today to the County Election Board.

At the same time — and on the same ballot — Salem will choose a 15-member commission to draft a proposed charter. Candidates for posts on the commission may file petitions with the Election Board until Sept. 28.

If voters reject the charter proposal, the commission will not function. A similar proposal was voted upon in East Liverpool, but rejected, about 12 years ago.

The question filed today says in essence: "Shall a commission be chosen to frame a charter?"

Salem Council enacted the ordinance after it was presented with a citizens' petition carrying 517 signatures requesting the action. A check showed 509 of the signatures were valid. Under state law, Council is required to submit the charter question after a valid petition has been presented.

Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk, said the Election Board probably will call a meeting to determine if the question will be given a ballot place.

All Ohio municipalities operate under the general provisions of state law unless their voters agree to adopt a charter under which the city lays down its own rules, so long as they do not conflict with state law.

Hurricane Kills 70, Still Threat To U.S.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Donna, leaving 70 dead in its wake, whirled west northwest in the Atlantic today, still a threat to the U.S. mainland.

Donna slowed her forward movement to 10 miles per hour but still packed winds up to 125 miles per hour over a small area near the center.

Early today the season's fourth tropical storm was about 200 miles east southeast of Turks Island in the Bahamas and 800 miles east-southeast of Miami, the nearest mainland point.

The hurricane's path indicated it may pass to the east of the Bahamas.

9,000 Attend Tomlinson Run State Park During Weekend

Attendance at Tomlinson Run State Park for the weekend totaled 9,000, including 1,000 swimmers, according to Supervisor N. T. Holbrook.

Since Jan. 1, park attendance totals 208,460. Of that number, 44,560 were swimmers and 3,600 used boating facilities. Visitors during the summer were from 26 states, Holbrook said.

A total of 1,450 used the park's group camps this summer. Attendance picked up lately but is running a little behind that of last season because of the cool, wet months of June and July.

About 3,000 attended Lake Marwin over the weekend. Some 1,800 enjoyed the facilities Sunday. The crowd was about 1,200 Monday. Yesterday marked the closing of the swimming and fishing season. Other activities will be continued.

A total of 639 admissions were recorded at the Thompson Park pool over the holiday weekend.

William Bell, superintendent, reported 282 paid admissions on Sunday and 357 on Monday as the pool closed for the season.

Park facilities, including picnic pavilions, tennis, basketball and shuffleboard courts will remain open until cold weather arrives.

Bell said many picnics have been scheduled for evenings and on Sundays.

Traffic on Route 30 and other roads in Columbiana County was heavy yesterday, according to the State Highway Patrol at Lisbon, but no serious mishaps were reported. Northbound traffic dominated the flow late Monday, officers said.

Although traffic in Hancock County was the heaviest of the year for the Labor Day weekend, county sheriff's deputies said there wasn't even a "scratched fender" reported.

Traffic was especially heavy in Chester.

There's Another Side To The Juvenile Story

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — A Des Moines man who has been hearing about juvenile delinquency went to his office to do some night work.

It said: "You left the lights on, so if your battery is dead, that's why. I turned the lights off at 9:40. You're welcome. Roosevelt High School student."

P. S. — The car's engine started all right.

One For The Birds

ROANOKE RAPIDS, N. C. (AP) — Townspeople complained when their electricity went off. They found that birds had done it again. They had shorted out a conductor, leaving two paper mills, four textile plants, two radio stations and 10,200 customers powerless for the second time in a month.

Here's A Happy Home With Happy Shooting

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Here's one happy home in the topsy-turvy entertainment world.

For her second wedding anniversary, singer Gisele MacKenzie received a .22-caliber revolver from her business manager-husband Robert Shuttleworth.

The reason? Shuttleworth recently became fascinated with the art of target shooting.

"Whatever Bob takes up," said Gisele, "I take up also. Otherwise, someone else is liable to take it up with him."

From Day To Night

FORT MORGAN, Colo. (AP) — Fort Morgan's city dog catcher has shifted his working hours from day to night. Police Chief Dan Dorn says he received very few complaints of dogs running loose during the day, but hounds galore were running all over the city at night.

Salem Awaits Charter Ballot

An ordinance calling for a vote at Salem at the Nov. 8 general election on a proposal to adopt a charter form of government was certified today to the County Election Board.

At the same time — and on the same ballot — Salem will choose a 15-member commission to draft a proposed charter. Candidates for posts on the commission may file petitions with the Election Board until Sept. 28.

If voters reject the charter proposal, the commission will not function. A similar proposal was voted upon in East Liverpool, but rejected, about 12 years ago.

The question filed today says in essence: "Shall a commission be chosen to frame a charter?"

Salem Council enacted the ordinance after it was presented with a citizens' petition carrying 517 signatures requesting the action. A check showed 509 of the signatures were valid. Under state law, Council is required to submit the charter question after a valid petition has been presented.

Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk, said the Election Board probably will call a meeting to determine if the question will be given a ballot place.

All Ohio municipalities operate under the general provisions of state law unless their voters agree to adopt a charter under which the city lays down its own rules, so long as they do not conflict with state law.

Martin Socks Home Run In Reds' 9-2 Win

PHILADELPHIA — Billy Martin's fist fights this season have obscured his generally steady play at second base for Cincinnati's Reds.

His defensive work has been virtually flautless. He's been hitting as expected, about .260.

The 165-pound infielder even has a few slugging sprees—admittedly rare—like Monday night.

He hadn't hit a home run since June 5, but his three-run blast in the seventh inning highlighted a free - swinging, 17-hit Cincinnati victory 9-2 over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Martin's last few years of rattling around the American League have made him yearn to stick with a club again.

He said, "When a man bounces around the way I have the last few years, people must get the idea he must be all washed up.

'I know I'm not, but the only way to prove it is on the field."

His home run Monday followed singles by Gordie Coleman and Willie Jones. After the homer, Vada Pinson wrapped up Redleg scoring with a home run of his own.

The Phils took three singles, including one that hit a runner, plus a walk and a sacrifice fly to get one run in the fifth inning. They loaded the bases again in the ninth on two singles and a walk and scored when Tony Gonzalez hit into a forceout.

All told, the Phillies combed Bob Purkey for 13 hits, but it was another typical Purkey - pitched game—plenty of hits but few in the clutches. His triumph was No. 16 against 8 losses as he edges toward the coveted 20-win mark.

The Reds started hitting early and often against starter Robin Roberts.

Frank Robinson banged a lead-off home run in the second inning. Ed Bailey followed with a double and Coleman singled him in. In the third Gus Bell doubled and Robinson drove him home with a single.

In the sixth Roy McMillan singled to center, but when Gonzalez let the ball get past him, McMillan scampered all the way around to score. Pinson then doubled and tried for home plate on Bell's single. Philly catcher Jim Coker tagged Pinson, but juggled the ball and lost the out.

The Reds' last game in Philadelphia this season comes tonight with Jim O'Toole pitching, opposed by John Buzhardt.

Ex-WVU Star Named VMI Frosh Cage Coach

LEXINGTON, Va. (AP) — Marvin "Bucky" Bolyard, former baseball and basketball star at West Virginia University, will become freshman basketball coach and assistant baseball mentor at Virginia Military Institute Sept. 12.

Bolyard, a native of Aurora in Preston County, W. Va., succeeds Burley Crowe, now on the staff of the Villanova Athletic Department.

The 23-year-old Bolyard is a 1959 graduate of WVU, and was co-captain of the 1958-1959 basketball team. He was a defensive specialist on the Mountaineer club which reached the finals of the NCAA Tournament. More recently, he had been signed to play with the Cleveland Pipers of the National Industrial Basketball League.

Steelers Switch Site Of Their Home Opener

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers football team has switched the site of its home-opener from Forbes Field to Pitt Stadium because the Pittsburgh Pirates may be in the World Series.

The Steelers had been scheduled to meet the New York Giants in a National Football League game at Forbes Field on Oct. 9.

In announcing the change, the Steelers management said the Pirates may be playing a World Series game at Forbes Field on that date.

Young Tennis Star Rallies

FOREST HILLS, N. Y. (AP)—"I hope," Chuck McKinley said wistfully today, "all I need is experience. I know I've had plenty of opportunities to win big ones."

McKinley, a sophomore at Trinity University in San Antonio, Tex., is one of America's big hopes in international tennis — if not this year, then a year or two in the future.

If he shows well in the national championships, he might get a starting singles berth against Venezuela in the final round of the North American Zone Davis Cup competition in Cleveland starting Sept. 15.

"I'm not really satisfied with my game," he continued. "If a player ever is satisfied, then he's in trouble."

McKinley spent three hours in trouble in the second round of the nationals Monday against Martin Riessen of Hinsdale, Ill., while a crowd of 9,000 stared in disbelief.

Chuck dropped the first set and permitted Riessen to get to set points five times in the second.

McKinley finally pulled it out with a service break in the 15th game. He won the third set when he broke in the 11th. But all the while Riessen was battling for every point.

The third round is complete with only Tut Bartzen among the missing seeded players. He was eliminated by Chris Crawford in the first round.

Defending champion Neale Fraser of Australia, top-seeded, led the pack into the third round Monday with a 6-1, 6-1, 6-1 victory over Crawford Henry of Atlanta.

Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, No. 3, downed Mac White of Corpus Christi, Tex., 6-4, 6-2, 6-4. Ron Holmberg of Brooklyn, No. 7, disposed of Robin Spengler of South Africa, 6-1, 6-3, 6-1, and Bobby Wilson of England, No. 8, took care of Don Rubell of Brooklyn, 6-0, 6-1, 6-2.

Major league baseball drew 214,907 fans for its Labor Day games, with the top crowd, 53,469, sitting in a twi-light-night double-header at the Los Angeles Coliseum.

With that boost from the San Francisco-Los Angeles game, the National League totaled 121,653, an increase of almost 50,000 over last year.

The American League totaled 93,254, some 5,000 more than last season.

Last year's joint major league crowd was 162,402.

Wins Softball Title

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Daring base running and fine defensive play enabled Cincinnati to defeat Cleveland, 12-4 and 17-2, Monday night to win the World Slow Pitch Softball Championship. Cincinnati's only defeat in the double elimination tournament was by Cleveland, which won a 12-9 decision Sunday night.

Johnny Pott Captures Dallas Open Tourney

DALLAS (AP)—Johnny Pott of Shreveport, La., won the $25,000 Dallas Open golf tournament Monday when he took a playoff with Ted Kroll and Bo Wininger for the $3,500 first money. Pott closed with a two-under-par 68 for a 72-hole score of 275, then won on the third playoff hole.

Bob Shave Jr., Willoughby, Ohio, wound up nine strokes off the pace and collected $163.34 in prize money with his final score of 72-69-74-69—284.

Martin Socks Home Run In Reds' 9-2 Win

PHILADELPHIA — Billy Martin's fist fights this season have obscured his generally steady play at second base for Cincinnati's Reds.

His defensive work has been virtually flautless. He's been hitting as expected, about .260.

The 165-pound infielder even has a few slugging sprees—admittedly rare—like Monday night.

He hadn't hit a home run since June 5, but his three-run blast in the seventh inning highlighted a free - swinging, 17-hit Cincinnati victory 9-2 over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Martin's last few years of rattling around the American League have made him yearn to stick with a club again.

He said, "When a man bounces around the way I have the last few years, people must get the idea he must be all washed up.

'I know I'm not, but the only way to prove it is on the field."

His home run Monday followed singles by Gordie Coleman and Willie Jones. After the homer, Vada Pinson wrapped up Redleg scoring with a home run of his own.

The Phils took three singles, including one that hit a runner, plus a walk and a sacrifice fly to get one run in the fifth inning. They loaded the bases again in the ninth on two singles and a walk and scored when Tony Gonzalez hit into a forceout.

All told, the Phillies combed Bob Purkey for 13 hits, but it was another typical Purkey - pitched game—plenty of hits but few in the clutches. His triumph was No. 16 against 8 losses as he edges toward the coveted 20-win mark.

The Reds started hitting early and often against starter Robin Roberts.

Frank Robinson banged a lead-off home run in the second inning. Ed Bailey followed with a double and Coleman singled him in. In the third Gus Bell doubled and Robinson drove him home with a single.

In the sixth Roy McMillan singled to center, but when Gonzalez let the ball get past him, McMillan scampered all the way around to score. Pinson then doubled and tried for home plate on Bell's single. Philly catcher Jim Coker tagged Pinson, but juggled the ball and lost the out.

The Reds' last game in Philadelphia this season comes tonight with Jim O'Toole pitching, opposed by John Buzhardt.

Ex-WVU Star Named VMI Frosh Cage Coach

LEXINGTON, Va. (AP) — Marvin "Bucky" Bolyard, former baseball and basketball star at West Virginia University, will become freshman basketball coach and assistant baseball mentor at Virginia Military Institute Sept. 12.

Bolyard, a native of Aurora in Preston County, W. Va., succeeds Burley Crowe, now on the staff of the Villanova Athletic Department.

The 23-year-old Bolyard is a 1959 graduate of WVU, and was co-captain of the 1958-1959 basketball team. He was a defensive specialist on the Mountaineer club which reached the finals of the NCAA Tournament. More recently, he had been signed to play with the Cleveland Pipers of the National Industrial Basketball League.

Steelers Switch Site Of Their Home Opener

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers football team has switched the site of its home-opener from Forbes Field to Pitt Stadium because the Pittsburgh Pirates may be in the World Series.

The Steelers had been scheduled to meet the New York Giants in a National Football League game at Forbes Field on Oct. 9.

In announcing the change, the Steelers management said the Pirates may be playing a World Series game at Forbes Field on that date.

Young Tennis Star Rallies

FOREST HILLS, N. Y. (AP)—"I hope," Chuck McKinley said wistfully today, "all I need is experience. I know I've had plenty of opportunities to win big ones."

McKinley, a sophomore at Trinity University in San Antonio, Tex., is one of America's big hopes in international tennis — if not this year, then a year or two in the future.

If he shows well in the national championships, he might get a starting singles berth against Venezuela in the final round of the North American Zone Davis Cup competition in Cleveland starting Sept. 15.

"I'm not really satisfied with my game," he continued. "If a player ever is satisfied, then he's in trouble."

McKinley spent three hours in trouble in the second round of the nationals Monday against Martin Riessen of Hinsdale, Ill., while a crowd of 9,000 stared in disbelief.

Chuck dropped the first set and permitted Riessen to get to set points five times in the second.

McKinley finally pulled it out with a service break in the 15th game. He won the third set when he broke in the 11th. But all the while Riessen was battling for every point.

The third round is complete with only Tut Bartzen among the missing seeded players. He was eliminated by Chris Crawford in the first round.

Defending champion Neale Fraser of Australia, top-seeded, led the pack into the third round Monday with a 6-1, 6-1, 6-1 victory over Crawford Henry of Atlanta.

Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, No. 3, downed Mac White of Corpus Christi, Tex., 6-4, 6-2, 6-4. Ron Holmberg of Brooklyn, No. 7, disposed of Robin Spengler of South Africa, 6-1, 6-3, 6-1, and Bobby Wilson of England, No. 8, took care of Don Rubell of Brooklyn, 6-0, 6-1, 6-2.

Games On Labor Day Lured 214,907 Fans

By The Associated Press

Major league baseball drew 214,907 fans for its Labor Day games, with the top crowd, 53,469, sitting in a twi-light-night double-header at the Los Angeles Coliseum.

With that boost from the San Francisco-Los Angeles game, the National League totaled 121,653, an increase of almost 50,000 over last year.

The American League totaled 93,254, some 5,000 more than last season.

Last year's joint major league crowd was 162,402.

Wins Softball Title

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Daring base running and fine defensive play enabled Cincinnati to defeat Cleveland, 12-4 and 17-2, Monday night to win the World Slow Pitch Softball Championship. Cincinnati's only defeat in the double elimination tournament was by Cleveland, which won a 12-9 decision Sunday night.

Johnny Pott Captures Dallas Open Tourney

DALLAS (AP)—Johnny Pott of Shreveport, La., won the $25,000 Dallas Open golf tournament Monday when he took a playoff with Ted Kroll and Bo Wininger for the $3,500 first money. Pott closed with a two-under-par 68 for a 72-hole score of 275, then won on the third playoff hole.

Bob Shave Jr., Willoughby, Ohio, wound up nine strokes off the pace and collected $163.34 in prize money with his final score of 72-69-74-69—284.

U.S. Setbacks Warned Of In World Market

CLEVELAND (AP) — A metal-working industry publication warned today this country is "losing the fight for survival in the new world market."

In a special issue devoted to the subject, the magazine Steel said the import-export shift cost the United States 3.6 billion dollars from 1956 to 1959. This was based on an increase of 2.6 billion dollars in imports (from 12.6 billion dollars in 1956 to 15.2 billion in 1959) and a drop of one billion dollars in exports (from 17.3 billion in 1956 to 16.3 billion in 1959).

Estimating on the basis of the number of men who would have been needed to turn out the products displaced by the import-export shift, Steel said foreign competition had cost the United States 700,000 jobs.

In the automobile industry, for instance, where exports dropped by 70,511 units while imports were increasing by 560,395, the weekly trade publication estimated the job loss at 39,400. This was based on an estimate of 125 manhours to build a standard car.

Steel put primary blame for the export-import shift in high U.S. wages. "We pay up to five times more per hour for our labor than our foreign competitions do. Our productivity is rarely five times better. Sometimes it's lower," the magazine noted.

But this is only part of the story. "U.S. workers have been getting vastly larger pay checks than their foreign counterparts for decades," Steel said. "The threat from abroad began when Uncle Sam sent his purse and some eager nephews—abroad to rebuild bombed and battered foreign manufacturing facilities after World War II.

"The more than $74 billion poured out in U.S. government aid and loans, plus another $33 billion in private aid and investments, helped give Europe and Japan the weapons with which to wage an economic war—with the U.S., their old ordnance officer, as the principle foe."

The magazine cited 21 reasons for our loss of world markets, including production inefficiency, weak competitive spirit, aloofness, poor market research, sloppy service, faulty design and "the red march." Exports by all nations in 1959 totaled $114 billion, and the communist nations made up 14 billion of this, including trade among the red nations themselves.

As an example of what has been happening in world markets, Steel noted that Brazil in 1946 imported 13,000 refrigerators and 1,000 washing machines—all from the United States. "By 1956, the Brazilian market had increased to 150,000 refrigerators and 40,000 washing machines. How did U.S. makers fare in the bigger potential? They didn't export a single refrigerator or washing machine to Brazil in 1956!"

"Our currently important industrial competitors will keep the pressure on us for decades," said Steel. "And new industrial rivals, the communist nations, will make the fight even tougher."

camp. He accused Lumumba of having pushed the strife-torn republic into a fratricidal war and dsaster.

The president asked Senate President Joseph Ileo, moderate political leader of the National Congolese Movement, to form a new government.

Two hours later, Lumumba made his move. Taking control of the network, he proclaimed himself in power.

"Forward youth and workers of the Congo," he shouted. "You must defend the republic."

As a studio audience of supporters clapped and cheered, Lumumba declared that Kasavubu was no longer chief of state.

"I am still chief of the national army," he asserted.

There appeared little doubt the Congolese army—although poorly trained and ill-disciplined — will play a determining role in the crisis.

Kasavubu's bid for control obviously was triggered by a desire to block a Soviet-led attempt to move into central Africa through material and technical aid to the Lumumba government.

A few hours before the president made his announcement, more than a score of Czechs dined in the airport restaurant and prepared to make a tour of the country to study the economic and social system.

Well-informed sources said more than 200 Russians have moved into the Congo in recent weeks. The Kremlin has supplied Lumumba with planes and military vehicles.

Civil war is raging in the southeast where Lumumba forces are trying to quell secessionist movements. Hundreds of tribesmen, soldiers and armed civilians are reported to have been killed.

2 Youths Held For Weekend 'Crime Spree'

EAST PALESTINE — Two Pittsburgh youths face charges of car thefts and breaking and entering following their apprehension after a Labor Day spree that ranged from Erie to Negley and New Brighton.

Joseph Theodore Johnson Jr., 19, and Lawrence Lehew, 18, are in city jail today awaiting a hearing on one auto theft charge, while other charges may be filed later.

They are due a hearing before County Judge Earl Spalding for the theft of an auto owned by Clyde Rummel of R. D. last night.

Police Chief Richard Lotze said the pair took a car at Erie yesterday morning, and drove to Cleveland and Canton, circling south to Negley and up to Unity where they halted at the Rollerena along Route 14 in search for gasoline.

Finding the pump at the rear of the Rollerena locked, they broke into the skating rink but were spotted by the owner, Richard Keating, who called police and gave chase in his auto.

The two youths abandoned the car on N. Market St. — where police found it last night at 8— and stole Rummel's car, Chief Lotze said, going to New Brighton where they went to sleep in the auto and were found at 3 a. m. today by police there.

They were returned here later this morning by Lotze who said Keating may file charges for entering the Rollerena. Lotze said taking the Erie auto over the Pennsylvania border was a federal violation.

Borrow Businessmen's Tip

Householders Are Leasing, Not Purchasing Appliances

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Householders plagued by appliances that seem to break down too soon and to take forever to be repaired are borrowing a tip from businessmen: leasing instead of buying.

Monthly rental fees are far from replacing monthly payments as the matter of first importance in latter day households.

But when and if leasing charges in general are brought down to the level of monthly payments, the new industry expects to take wings.

The trend may have started with apartment dwellers renting a car now and then rather than keeping one in the city. Now it is spreading into the suburbs for appliances to be used all the time, as apart from the old custom of renting services equipment just for parties.

Already consumers can lease TV sets, furniture, power tools, and airplanes and cabin cruisers as well as cars—sometimes from dealers and increasingly from leasing corporations.

The industry is now talking about offering a household equipment package one of these days. It would include washer, dryer, refrigerator, dishwasher, air conditioner and optional power lawnmower.

This may wait until rental costs can be lowered to the level of monthly payments for eventual ownership.

Leasing and time payment costs now run about the same in the first two years, Lippincott & Marguiles says, if you count in depreciation, service and interest charges. After that, as depreciation ratios decrease, leasing charges mount by 5 to 15 per cent over purchase costs.

Listed as extra leasing benefits are freedom from insurance charges and major repair bills, from trade-in problems and getting up the down payment, and from loss of appliance use while waiting for the repair man to get parts for machines which designers charge tend to be too highly machines and too complicated.

With leasing the corporation contracts to provide service and to replace appliances when major time-consuming repairs are in order.

Consumer equipment leasing spilled over from the business world where many companies turned to it after World War II, and markedly so in the 1950s.

The renting companies escape service corporations, avoid tying up capital in costly equipment, get tools needed for comparative short term jobs.

For the consumer its largely a matter of convenience and freedom for repairs.

There will be eight pallbearers at the funeral, among them Earl Long's nephew, U.S. Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., son of Huey P. Long.

Although most of the talk throughout the state was of disbelief at the sudden death of Ole Earl, a note of realism crept in among 8th District political leaders. They must select a successor to Long as Democratic candidate for Congress by Sept. 20.

Committee chairman Jesse Funderburk said it was likely Rep. Harold McSween, defeated for renomination by Long, Aug. 27, would be mentioned.

In and out of the executive mansion and several mental hospitals, Long had capped his long years in the limelight just 10 days ago, when he defeated McSween by 4,000 votes in a Democratic runoff in the 8th District.

Death came just when he seemed to be getting better. Mrs. Long said she had been told he had spent a good night Sunday.

Then at 7:30 a.m. Monday Long "coughed once or twice, turned over in his bed and died."

Ike Assailed Again In Talk By Kennedy

By JACK BELL

POCATELLO, Idaho (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy, continuing his attack on President Eisenhower's foreign policies, complained anew today that Soviet planes bound for the Congo are being allowed to refuel at a NATO base in Athens.

Kennedy kept up a tattoo of attacks on Eisenhower's leadership and foreign policies as he pushed his Democratic presidential drive into the mountain and Pacific Northwest states.

He charged Monday night that Soviet planes bound on infiltration and subversion missions to the Congo are being allowed to use the NATO base.

The Democratic nominee wired Secretary of State Christian A. Herter seeking a telephone interview to explore the administration's position on this matter.

With what to him was a highly satisfactory round of Labor Day campaigning in Michigan behind him, Kennedy repeated his charge that the Republican administration has surrendered first place in the world to the Soviets and is standing motionless at home.

In an address prepared for a rally here, Kennedy said that "to assert leadership abroad requires that we assert leadership at home."

"It requires that we move ahead on every front and on every frontier," he said. "And we have not been moving ahead in recent years."

As chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on Africa, Kennedy felt it was proper for him to call for information from the State Department.

Kennedy said in a statement that he feels the Soviet flights could have a single purpose—"to bring the cold war to the Congo and to undermine the freedom and newly won independence of the African people.

Standing on a temporary platform in a park at Muskegon, Mich., with a yellow harvest moon peering over the horizon, Kennedy spelled out his attitude toward Eisenhower in a simple sentence.

"I admire the President of the United States as a man," he said. "but we cannot continue to live under the kind of leadership we have had."
